Cognitive Assessment Kikumi K. Tatsuoka, 2009-05-22 This book introduces a new methodology for the analysis of test results Free from ambiguous interpretations the results truly demonstrate an individual s progress The methodology is ideal for highlighting patterns derived from test scores used in evaluating progress Dr Tatsuoka introduces readers to the Rule Space Method RSM a technique that transforms unobservable knowledge and skill variables into observable and measurable attributes RSM converts item response patterns into attribute mastery probabilities RSM is the only up to date methodology that can handle large scale assessment for tests such as the SAT and PSAT PSAT used the results from this methodology to create cognitively diagnostic scoring reports In this capacity RSM helps teachers understand what scores mean by helping them ascertain an individual s cognitive strengths and weaknesses For example two students may have the exact same score but for different reasons One student might excel at processing grammatically complex texts but miss the main idea of the prose while another excels at understanding the global message Such knowledge helps teachers customize a student s education to his or her cognitive abilities RSM is also used for medical diagnoses genetics research and to help classify music into various states of emotions for treating mental problems The book opens with an overview of cognitive assessment research and nonparametric and parametric person fit statistics The Q matrix theory is then introduced followed by the Rule Space method Various properties of attribute mastery probabilities are then introduced along with the reliability theory of attributes and its connection to classical and item response theory The book concludes with a discussion of how the construct validity of a test can be clarified with the Rule Space method Intended for researchers and graduate students in quantitative educational and cognitive psychology this book also appeals to those in computer science neuroscience medicine and mathematics The book is appropriate for advanced courses on cognometrics latent class structures and advanced psychometrics as well as statistical pattern recognition and classification courses taught in statistics and or math departments

Relationships Between Student Attitudes Toward Computer-assisted Instruction and Training Performance

Bruce W. Knerr,1978 The attitudes of 90 enlisted personnel toward Computer Assisted Instruction CAI were measured before and after they received instruction presented by CAI The attitude pretest and posttest were administered on line The instructional material was divided into four lesson segments each followed by a review test segment Students who failed to reach the criterion score for any review segment repeated the corresponding lesson segment A criterion test was administered at the end of the last segment Measures of student performance used during the course of the instruction were a the total score on the criterion test total score b the number of errors made during the lesson and review segments errors c the percentage of responses made during the lesson and review segments that were incorrect percent errors d the time required to complete the lesson and review segments time and e the number of review segments failed review failures The attitudes pretest did not correlate significantly with any of the performance measures A significant correlation was obtained between attitude posttest and percent errors $r = .22$ Attitude change was correlated with total score $r = .28$ errors $r = .19$ and percent errors $r = .25$ Attitude and attitude change were not related to student ability Author Description of PLATO

Whole Number Arithmetic Lessons Bonnie Anderson Seiler,Charles S. Weaver,1976 Knowledge and Language Eric J. Reuland,Werner Abraham,F. R. Ankersmit,1993 Studying the relation between knowledge and language one may distinguish two different lines of inquiry one focussing on language as a body of knowledge the other on language as a vehicle of knowledge Approaching language as a body of knowledge one faces questions concerning its structure and the relation with other types of knowledge One will ask then how language is acquired and to what extent the acquisition of language and the structure of the language faculty model relevant aspects of other cognitive capacities If language is approached as a vehicle for knowledge the question comes up what enables linguistic entities to represent facts about the world To what extent does this rely on conventional aspects of meaning Is it possible for language when used non conventionally as in metaphors to convey intersubjective knowledge If so and it does seem to be the case one may wonder what makes this possible The aim of this conference was to investigate the role of conceptual structure in cognitive processes exploring it from the perspectives of philosophy of language linguistics political philosophy psychology literary theory aesthetics and the philosophy of science Publisher description USPTO Image File Wrapper Petition Decisions 0476 , Proceedings of the Annual
