Platonic Production Theme And Variations The Gilson Lectures:

Platonic Production Stanley Rosen, Andy R. German, 2014 Platonic Production presents Prof Stanley Rosen's Etienne Gilson Lectures delivered at the Institut Catholique de Paris and now available in English for first time His lectures bring Heidegger and Plato into a conversation around a basic philosophical question Does the acquisition of truth resemble discovery or production While Rosen undertakes a close examination of Heidegger's engagement with Plato exposing some ways in which that engagement constitutes a misreading the goals of his study are not exclusively critical In arguing against the claim that Plato stands at the beginning of Western metaphysical history which culminates in late modern nihilism Rosen also points out how close Plato is to some characteristically Heideggerean themes and formulations Heidegger is critiqued from the standpoint of Plato but it is equally true that Platonic themes such as the hypothesis of the Forms are read anew in light of the questions raised by Heidegger In keeping with the overarching theme of the Gilson Lectures Rosen's six talks and the introduction by the volume's editor aim to demonstrate that metaphysics is always possible indeed inescapable by meditating on the two philosophers whose thinking especially where it diverges centers on that very point While Platonic Productions takes up some of the most contentious issues in the Heidegger Plato relationship issues which are addressed in the always expanding scholarly literature and in Rosen's own earlier work it is not at all intended exclusively for specialists in Plato or Heidegger Rather it is hoped that this volume will appeal to all who are interested in Greek and German thought and in the foundational questions which underlie the history of philosophy as a whole both ancient and modern What Comes

After Postmodernism in Educational Theory? Michael A. Peters, Marek Tesar, Liz Jackson, Tina Besley, 2020-06-09 Marking the fiftieth anniversary of the Educational Philosophy and Theory journal this book brings together the work of over 200 international scholars who seek to address the question What happened to postmodernism in educational theory after its alleged demise Declarations of the death knell of postmodernism are now quite commonplace Scholars in various disciplines have suggested that if anything postmodernism is at an end and has been dead and buried for some time An age dominated by playfulness hybridity relativism and the fragmentary self has given way to something else as yet undefined The lifecycle of postmodernism started with Derrida's 1966 seminal paper Structure Sign and Play in the Discourse of the Human Sciences its peak years were 1973 1989 followed by uncertainty and reorientation in the 1990s and the aftermath and beyond McHale 2015 What happened after 2001 This collection provides responses by over 200 scholars to this question who also focus on what comes after postmodernism in educational theory This book was originally published as a special issue of the journal Educational Philosophy and Theory Devotional Intelligence and Jewish Religious Thinking Phillip

Stambovsky, 2019-07-05 This groundbreaking neo Maimonidean work establishes on independently philosophical grounds the intellectual warrant of Jewish religious thinking as devotional intelligence It demonstrates the purchase and intellectual authority of such thinking by appeal to two dialectically interrelated principles on the one hand the metaphysical principle that knowing is of being and on the other sacral attunement a normative principle Part I distinguishes this study from leading work in contemporary philosophy of Judaism It introduces the game changing bid to privilege intelligence in the onto epistemological Aristotelian sense over epistemologically orchestrated post Enlightenment reason when it comes to assessing the intellectual soundness of religious thinking Part II distills contemporary elements of Aristotle s onto epistemological psychology of intelligence that Maimonides incorporated in his philosophy of Jewish religious thinking Further it finds in Hegel a bridge between Maimonides account of devotional intelligence and a modern Maimonidean science of knowing dedicated to religious thinking Part III turns to sacral attunement foregrounding the normative devotional aspect of devotional intelligence It probes the intentionality of both onto epistemological attunement and the sacred relative to the factor of the transcendent In the process it identifies and applies elements of an existential phenomenology of fundamental attunement that thematize defining realities of the sacral attunement unique to normative Jewish covenantal praxis A related analysis of the sacred in religious thinking follows which segues to a chapter on the factor of the transcendent as a seminal constituent of meaning in both the sciences and religion Part IV applies and amplifies key findings in light of a signature Jewish devotional theme the divine names approached from a signally Maimonidean apophatic position indexed to the factor of the transcendent as the unconditioned condition Kant of intelligible meaning as such Distinguishing what the divine names indicate from what they refer to the essay concludes by substantiating the intellectual warrant of Jewish religious thinking as a devotional intelligence of the relation of identity in difference between the attributive names and the Tetragrammaton
