- Businesses create a marketing mix to achieve their marketing objectives. This mix includes the 4Ps of marketing: Product, Price, Promotion, and Place.
- Product refers to the goods or services that a business offers to its customers. It includes the core product (the basic benefit or service) and the augmented product (the additional features and benefits that differentiate the product from its competitors).
- Price is the amount of money that customers must pay to acquire a product or service. It is a key factor in determining a business's profitability and its competitive advantage.
- Promotion refers to the communication and promotion activities that a business uses to inform its target market about its products and services and to persuade them to purchase.
- Place refers to the locations and channels through which a business distributes its products and services to its customers. It includes the physical distribution (the logistics of getting the product to the customer) and the channel distribution (the intermediaries that help the business reach its customers).

It is also noteworthy that the (50%) patient benefit in total intracranial resection for glioblastoma multiforme was significantly greater than the 20% patient benefit in total intracranial resection for glioblastoma multiforme in the other two trials. In addition, the overall survival rate was significantly higher in the total intracranial resection group than in the subtotal resection group in the other two trials. The above preliminary results suggest that total intracranial resection is a more effective treatment for glioblastoma multiforme.
