Pacifism and Pentecostals in South Africa Marius Nel, 2018-06-27 Most of the early twentieth century Pentecostal denominations were peace churches that encouraged a stance of conscientious objection However since the Second World War Pentecostals have largely abandoned their pacifist viewpoint as they have taken on a more literal Biblical hermeneutic from their interaction with Evangelical denominations This book traces the history of nonviolence in Pentecostalism and suggests that a new hermeneutic of the Bible is needed by today s Pentecostals in order for them to rediscover their pacifist roots and effect positive social change The book focuses on how Pentecostalism has manifested in South Africa during the twentieth century Much of the available academic literature on hermeneutics and exegesis in the field of Pentecostal Studies is of an American or British European origin This book redresses this imbalance by exploring how the Bible has been used amongst African Pentecostals to teach on the apparent paradox of a simultaneously wrathful and loving God It then goes on to suggest that how the Bible is read directly affects how Pentecostals view their role as potential reformers of society So it must be engaged seriously and thoughtfully By bringing Pentecostalism's function in South African society to the fore this book adds a fresh perspective on the issue of pacifism in world Christianity As such it will be of great use to scholars of Pentecostal Studies Theology and Religion and Violence as well as those working in African Studies Environmental Crime and Social Conflict Avi Brisman, Nigel South, Rob White, 2016-03-09 This impressive collection of original essays explores the relationship between social conflict and the environment a topic that has received little attention within criminology The chapters provide a systematic and comprehensive introduction and overview of conflict situations stemming from human exploitation of environments as well as the impact of social conflicts on the wellbeing and health of specific species and ecosystems Largely informed by green criminology perspectives the chapters in the book are intended to stimulate new understandings of the relationships between humans and nature through critical evaluation of environmental destruction and degradation associated with social conflicts occurring around the world With a goal of creating a typology of environment social conflict relationships useful for green criminological research this study is essential reading for scholars and academics in criminology as well as those interested in crime law and justice Minerals Yearbook Geological Survey, Interior Department, Mines Bureau, 2019-01-31 This volume covering metals and minerals contains chapters on approximately 90 commodities In addition this volume has chapters on mining and quarrying trends and on statistical surveying methods used by Minerals Information plus a statistical summary Minerals Yearbook ,2010 Russian Approaches to International Law Lauri Mälksoo, 2015-03-06 This book addresses a simple question how do Russians understand international law Is it the same understanding as in the West or is it in some ways different and if so why It answers these questions by drawing on from three different yet closely interconnected perspectives history theory and recent state practice The work uses comparative international law as starting point and argues that in order to understand post Soviet Russia's state and scholarly approaches to international law one should take into account the history of ideas in Russia To an extent Russian understandings of international law differ from what is considered the mainstream in the West One specific feature of this book is that it goes inside the language of international law as it is spoken and discussed in post Soviet Russia especially the scholarly literature in the Russian language and relates this literature to the history of international law as discipline in Russia Recent state practice such as the annexation of Crimea in 2014 Russia's record in the UN Security Council the jurisprudence of the European Court of Human Rights prominent cases in investor state arbitration and the creation of the Eurasian Economic Union are laid out and discussed in the context of increasingly popular civilizational ideas the claim that Russia is a unique civilization and therefore not part of the West The implications of this claim for the future of international law its universality and regionalism are discussed Laws against strikes. The South African Experience in an international and Comparative Perspective AA. Challenges of Interdisciplinary Research in the Field of Critical (Sex/ Gender) Neuroscience Hannah

Otto, Nathaniel James Hall, Wendy Irene Baltzer, 2021-09-29 Tort Liability in Multinational Corporate Groups Pinar

Kara, 2023-06-18 Multinational corporate groups are important actors in today's global economy with the power to impact the masses through their activities. National legal systems which usually have no extraterritorial authority remain insufficient to regulate the activities of multinational corporate groups which operate worldwide not only in the countries where the parent companies reside home country but also in countries where the subsidiaries operate host countries. The mentioned lack of an effective legislation leads to an unjust imbalance to the benefit of multinational corporate groups and to the detriment especially of involuntary creditors such as tort victims of corporate activities which predominantly concern human rights abuses and environmental violations. Against this backdrop the book firstly assesses the position of multinational corporate groups in international law and then discusses potential reforms to corporate law that would allow for a multi stakeholder approach. It analyses certain aspects of Turkish tort law that could potentially accommodate liability claims against the parent companies of multinational corporate groups for damage incurred due to their transnational subsidiaries activities referred to as foreign direct liability in legal doctrine. To this end the potential legal grounds of fault liability and strict liability are assessed under Turkish law with a particular focus on the duty of care in comparison with the corresponding case law in the UK and the Netherlands. Mandatory human rights due diligence is also analysed with a view to proposing a new regulation in Turkish law. Lastly the aspects of foreign direct liability claims related to private international law are assessed in order to answer the questions of jurisdiction and applicable law within the scope of a comparative legal study. Owning a Body + Moving a Body = Me? Lorenzo Pia, Francesca Garbarini, Andreas Kalckert, Hong Yu Wong, 2019-05-16 The conscious experience of the bodily self is a cornerstone of human nature which allows us to delineate the boundaries between the surrounding environment and us. A plethora of clinical and experimental investigations has clearly demonstrated that bodily self consciousness draws on different neuro cognitive mechanisms with distinct anatomical functional underpinnings. Among these the sense of body ownership i.e. my body belongs to me and the sense of agency i.e. I am the author of my actions have attracted increasing interest in recent years. The former seems to be strongly rooted in afferent sensory signals whereas the latter appears to be rooted in efferent motor signals and/or the monitoring of their sensory consequences. Despite the consensus that the interplay between body ownership and the sense of agency contribute to the omnipresent conscious experience of the bodily self the character and the form of this relationship remain unclear. Though research into the mechanisms underlying ownership e.g. bodily illusions or on agency e.g. intentional binding is blooming very few studies have aimed to investigate both these processes at the same time. Therefore many questions remain unresolved for example how do the experiences of ownership and agency influence each other. What are the anatomical functional substrates of their interplay and how does damage to these structures affect the experience of either ownership or agency or both in clinical populations What is the specific role of efferent and afferent signals and how may these be complimented by other inputs like emotional or interoceptive cues And going beyond the mechanisms and anatomo functional substrates are there rational relations between the representations underlying body ownership and agency so that ownership can be seen as a condition on intentional action and a sense of agency Elucidating the complex relationship between ownership and agency is a crucial step in our understanding of bodily self consciousness and may help us to better understand the variety of neurological psychiatric disorders affecting the perception of one s own body and its movements These insights can contribute to the development of future prosthetic devices or virtual reality applications which may in turn allow for new approaches in neuroscience rehabilitative medicine and therapeutic interventions Congressional Record United States.
