The Human Rights Covenants at 50 Daniel Moeckli, Helen Keller, Corina Heri, 2018-06-06 Half a century ago on 16 December 1966 the UN General Assembly adopted the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights ICCPR and the International Covenant on Economic Social and Cultural Rights ICESCR While the adoption of the two UN human rights covenants was celebrated all over the world their 50th anniversary has received very little attention from the international community The present book marks this anniversary by taking stock of the first half century of the existence of what are probably the world's two most important human rights treaties It does so by reflecting on what the covenants have achieved or failed to achieve in the years that have passed by determining and comparing their current influence in the various regions of the world and by assessing their potential roles in the future The book contains papers that were presented during a symposium held in Zurich in 2016 which brought together experts and stakeholders from a range of disciplines and world regions Some fundamental issues that are addressed by the contributors are as old as the two covenants themselves They concern for example the division of human rights into first and second generation rights and the question of whether there should be one central monitoring body possibly a world court or more than just one However the contributors go beyond such questions that have been explored before they develop new answers to old questions and point to new challenges
