Criminal Justice System United States. National Advisory Commission on Criminal Justice Standards and Goals,1973 This manual contains the standards for reform in the management and operation of the criminal justice system focusing on planning education and information systems Planning for resource allocation is one of the most important functions that a criminal justice agency performs The 1968 Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act required the creation of state criminal justice planning agencies and the development of annual state comprehensive plans as a contingency for state participation in federal criminal justice funding In the initial section of this volume the National Advisory Commission points out the need for additional planning at the metropolitan and regional levels and indicates the necessity for quantifying performance objectives It also stresses participation in the planning process by criminal justice agencies government departments and private citizens The Commission recommends the development of state integrated multiyear planning and the establishment of criminal justice coordinating councils by all major cities and counties Other areas of concern to the Commission in addition to management and budget planning include systems analysis information systems evaluation personnel training and criminal code revision These and other commission proposals appear in the form of specific standards and recommendations nearly 70 in all that spell out in detail what the segments of the criminal justice system the police courts and correctional agencies can do to upgrade and modernize many of their functions This manual is a reference work for the practitioner as well as the interested layman *Laws of the State of New York Passed at the ... Percival,2015-07-28 The most punitive era in American history reached its apex in the 1990s but the trend has reversed in recent years Smart on Crime The Struggle to Build a Better American Penal System examines the factors causing this dramatic turnaround It relates and echoes the increasing need and desire on the part of actors in the American government system to construct a penal system that is more rational and humane Author Garrick L Percival points out that the prison boom did not naturally emerge as a governmental response to increasing crime rates. Instead, political forces actively built and shaped the growth of a more aggressive and populated penal system. He is optimistic that the shifting political forces surrounding crime and punishment can now reform the system, explaining how current political actors can craft more constructive and just policies and programs. The book shows how rationality and humanitarianism lead to a penal system that imprisons fewer people, does less harm to the lives of individual offenders and those close to them, and is less expensive to maintain. The book presents empirical data to concretely demonstrate what is working and what is not in today's penal system. It closely examines policies and practices in Texas, Ohio, and California as comparative illustrations on what progress has been made or needs to be made in penal systems across the United States. The book includes a comprehensive discussion of highlighted issues and relates more than two dozen interviews with pivotal political actors who clarify why there is a major shift underway in the American penal system. Their insights reveal paths that can be taken to improve the current penal system.
