

The Elevator Safety Chain

OTIS

1 The Controller

Microprocessor-based controllers are the brains of the system, controlling all elevator functions based on data received from multiple subsystems, components and sensors.

2 The Machine

The gearless machine consists of a motor, traction sheave and brake. The sheave drives the cables attached to the elevator car and counterweight. In a gearless traction machine, the drive sheave is an integral part of the motor.

3 The Brakes

Modern elevators use friction brakes: a pair of shoes that apply equal and opposite pressure to a drum, pulley or disc mounted on the motor shaft. Springs apply the brake shoes to the pulley and are lifted electrically. If power is lost, the brake applies.

EXTERNAL DRUM

INTERNAL DRUM

4

Governors

The governor continuously monitors car speed. If the car exceeds its maximum rated speed, flyweights inside the governor spring outward, causing the governor to initiate action: first engaging the machine brake, then engaging the car safeties.

5

Safeties

Located on the elevator car itself, the safeties grab the hoistway rails when activated.

6

Buffer

Positioned at the bottom of the hoistway, buffers can absorb and dissipate the energy of a descending elevator.

Gonzalo Abad, 2016-09-13 Power Electronics and Electric Drives for Traction Applications offers a practical approach to understanding power electronics applications in transportation systems ranging from railways to electric vehicles and ships. It is an application oriented book for the design and development of traction systems accompanied by a description of the core technology. The first four introductory chapters describe the common knowledge and background required to understand the preceding chapters. After that, each application specific chapter highlights the significant manufacturers involved, provides a historical account of the technological evolution, experienced, distinguishes the physics and mechanics, and where possible, analyses a real life example and provides the necessary models and simulation tools, block diagrams, and simulation based validations. Key features: Surveys power electronics state of the art in all aspects of traction applications. Presents vital design and development knowledge that is extremely important for the professional community in an original, simple, clear, and complete manner. Offers design guidelines for power electronics traction systems in high speed rail, ships, electric hybrid vehicles, elevators, and more applications. Application specific chapters co-authored by traction industry expert. Learning supplemented by tutorial sections, case studies, and MATLAB Simulink based simulations with data from practical systems. A valuable reference for application engineers in traction industry responsible for design and development of products, as well as traction industry researchers, developers, and graduate students on power electronics and motor drives needing a reference to the application examples.
