defined religious and social hierarchies and long distance trading Ancient Egyptian culture flourished between c 5500 BCE with the rise of technology as evidenced in the glass work of faience and 30 BCE with the death of Cleopatra VII the last Ptolemaic ruler of Egypt It is famous today for the great monuments which celebrated the triumphs of the rulers and honored the gods of the land The culture is often misunderstood as having been obsessed with death but had this been so it is unlikely it would have made the significant impression it did on other ancient cultures such as Greece and Rome Neolithic means a new stone age even though agriculture was the crowning achievement of the period Civilizations started out small Agriculture at first tended to tie only small groups together These groups also all settled along rivers important as a reliable and predictable source of water As time passed families usually worked the same plot of land over successive generations leading to the concept of ownership Ancient mortars and grinding tools unearthed in a large mound in the Zagros Mountains of Iran reveal that people were grinding wheat and barley about 11 000 years ago Grass pea wild wheat wild barley and lentils were found throughout the site including some of the earliest known samples This was much further east than most sites known for early agriculture This book furnishes with utmost facility to all classes of readers the needed information on ancient civilization The unusual variety of the subject makes this a work of endless fascination

Imperialism in the Modern World
William Bowman, Frank Chute, J. Megan Greene, 2016-11-03 Imperialism in the Modern World combines narrative primary and secondary sources and visual documents to examine global relations in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries The three co editors Professors Bowman Chute and Greene have taught for many years global history classes in a variety of institutions They wrote Imperialism in the Modern World to solve the problem of allowing teachers to combine primary and secondary texts easily and systematically to follow major themes in global history some readers use primary materials exclusively Some focus on secondary arguments This book is more focused than other readers on the markets for those teachers who are offering more specialized world history courses one important trend in global history is away from simply trying to cover everything to teaching real connections in more chronologically and thematically focused courses The reader also provides a genuine diversity of global perspectives and invites students to study seriously world history from a critical framework Too many readers offer a smorgasbord approach to world history that leaves students dazed and confused This reader avoids that approach and will therefore solve many problems that teachers have in constructing and teaching world history courses at the introductory or upper division levels The reader will allow show students how to read historical documents through a hands on demonstration in the introduction The book also incorporates images as visual documents Finally the book conceives of global history in the widest possible terms it contains pieces on political diplomatic economic and military history to be sure but it also has selections on technology medicine women the environment social changes and cultural patterns Other readers can not match this text's breadth because they are chronologically and thematically so extended

Teaching World History: A Resource Book Heidi Roupp, 2015-03-04 A resource book for teachers of world history at all levels The text contains individual sections on art gender religion philosophy literature trade and technology Lesson plans reading and multi media recommendations and suggestions for classroom activities are also provided The Cambridge World History Norman Yoffee,2015-03-12 The most comprehensive account yet of the human past from prehistory to the present Big and Little Histories Marnie Hughes-Warrington,Anne Martin,2021-08-19 This book introduces students to ethics in historiography through an exploration of how historians in different times and places have explained how history ought to be written and how those views relate to different understandings of ethics No two histories are the same The book argues that this is a good thing because the differences between histories are largely a matter of ethics Looking to histories made across the world and from ancient times until today readers are introduced to a wide variety of approaches to the ethics of history including well known ethical approaches such as the virtue ethics of universal historians and utilitarian approaches to collective biography writing while also discovering new and emerging ideas in the ethics of history Through these approaches readers are encouraged to challenge their ideas about whether humans are separate from other living and non living things and whether machines and animals can write histories The book looks to the fundamental questions posed about the nature of history making by Indigenous history makers and asks whether the ethics at play in the global variety of histories might be better appreciated in professional codes of conduct and approaches to research ethics management Opening up the topic of ethics to show how historians might have viewed ethics differently in the past the book requires no background in ethics or history theory and is open to all of those with an interest in how we think about good histories

Turks, Jews, and Other Germans in Contemporary Art Peter Chametzky,2021-09-14 The first book to examine multicultural visual art in Germany discussing more than thirty contemporary artists and arguing for a cosmopolitan Germanness With Turks Jews and Other Germans in Contemporary Art Peter Chametzky presents a view of visual culture in Germany that leaves behind the usual suspects those artists who dominate discussions of contemporary German art including Gerhard Richter Anselm Kiefer and Rosemarie Trockel and instead turns to those artists not as well known outside Germany including Maziar Moradi Hito Steyerl and Tanya Ury In this first book length examination of Germany's multicultural art scene Chametzky explores the work of more than thirty German artists who are among other ethnicities Turkish Jewish Arab Asian Iranian Sinti and Roma Balkan and Afro German With a title that echoes Peter Gay's 1978 collection of essays Freud Jews and Other Germans this book like Gay's rejects the idea of us and them in German culture Discussing artworks in a variety of media that both critique and expand notions of identity and community Chametzky offers a counternarrative to the fiction of an exclusively white Christian German culture arguing for a cosmopolitan Germanness He considers works that deploy critical confrontational and playful uses of language especially German and Turkish that assert the presence of foreign bodies among the German body politic that grapple with food as a cultural marker that engage with mass media and that depict and inhabit spaces imbued with the element of time American discussions of German contemporary art have largely ignored the emergence of non ethnic Germans as some of Germany s most important visual artists Turks Jews and Other Germans in Contemporary Art fills this gap
