The background of the cover is a photograph of an old, neglected interior. The walls are covered in peeling, yellowish-brown paint or plaster. A doorway in the center leads to another room, which is also in a state of disrepair. The floor is dark and uneven. The overall tone is somber and evokes a sense of history and decay.

Preservation Education Barry L. Stiefel, Jeremy C. Wells, 2014-09-02 Over the past twenty years there has been a fundamental shift in the institutional organization of historic preservation education Historic preservation is the most recent arrival in the collection of built environment disciplines and therefore lacks the pedagogical depth and breadth found in allied endeavors such as architecture and planning As the first degree programs in preservation only date to the 1970s and the first doctoral programs to the 1990s new faculty are confronted with pedagogical challenges that are unique to this relatively nascent field Based on a conference that included educators from around the world Barry L Stiefel and Jeremy C Wells now present a collection that seeks to address fundamental issues of preservation pedagogy outcome based education and assessment and global issues of authenticity and significance in historic preservation The editors argue that the subject of the analysis has shifted from What is the best way to fix a historic building to What are the best ways for teaching people how to preserve historic properties and why according to the various standards that have been established This important reconsideration of the state of the field in historic preservation education will appeal to a broad audience across numerous disciplines

The Routledge Companion to Automobile Heritage, Culture, and Preservation Barry L. Stiefel, Jennifer Clark, 2019-12-06 The Routledge Companion to Automobile Heritage Culture and Preservation explores automotive heritage its place in society and the ways we might preserve and conserve it Drawing on contributions from academics and practitioners around the world and comprising six sections this volume carries the heritage discourse forward by exploring the complex and sometimes intricate place of automobiles within society Taken as a whole this book helps to shape how we think about automobile heritage and considers how that heritage explores a range of cultural intellectual emotional and material elements well outside of the automobile body itself Most importantly perhaps it questions how we might better acknowledge the importance of automotive heritage now and in the future The Routledge Companion to Automobile Heritage Culture and Preservation is unique in that it juxtaposes theory with practice academic approaches with practical experience and recognizes that issues of preservation and conservation belong in a broad context As such this volume should be essential reading for both academics and practitioners with an interest in automobiles cultural heritage and preservation

Managing the Magic of Old Places Jeremy Wells, 2025-10-14 From 1849 to the early 1980s the development of US historic preservation policy was shaped by fewer than one hundred elite White men from Europe and America This orthodox preservation doctrine has too long silenced the vibrant experiential relationships between everyday people and their heritage Managing the Magic of Old Places Crafting Public Policies for People Centered Historic Preservation offers a radical rethinking of how historic preservation is approached in the United States Author Jeremy C Wells argues for a revolutionary shift in federal preservation policy one that embraces community based participatory practice and draws from environmental psychology to tap into the intangible emotional connections people have with old places Wells highlights the experiential values that laypeople often ascribe to historic environments which are frequently dismissed by expert driven policies He contends that if historic preservation policy continues to ignore these aspects the field will lose relevance as the gap between professionals and the public widens Drawing from interdisciplinary research in the social sciences particularly phenomenology and environmental psychology Wells's vision of public preservation policy centers the lived experiences of communities reinvigorating the field and ensuring that the preservation of historic places resonates with a wider more inclusive audience Wells positions his work within the growing field of critical heritage studies yet his focus on the psychological and emotional aspects of preservation distinguishes it as a unique contribution By placing the needs and experiences of the public at the heart of preservation efforts Wells critiques the historical foundations of US preservation policy while offering a bold agenda for reform

Second-Order Preservation Erica Avrami, 2024-12-17 An urgent appeal to rethink the heritage enterprise A critical reassessment of historic preservation policies in the United States Second Order Preservation brings needed attention to the hierarchical underpinnings and effects of established preservation frameworks Questioning the criteria by which value is ascribed to historic buildings and neighborhoods Erica Avrami works to elucidate and transform how and which claims to place become codified in and reinforced through public policy As she eschews dominant case study approaches that center the individual object of preservation such as a discrete building or site Avrami develops the concept of second order preservation as a means of integrating broader considerations around social justice equitable land use planning and environmental sustainability Ranging from municipal to state to national and international levels of governance her critique of the origins and evolution of heritage policy reveals how this conventional emphasis on the object has contributed to policy tensions and systemic exclusion Stressing the need to reform current preservation practices to serve more diverse publics Avrami encourages a turn to an approach that substantively considers contexts and implications of preservation in the scheme of climate and justice Second Order Preservation maintains the interrelation between theory and practice serving as both a critical reflection and a provocation aimed at advancing a more just set of urban policy agendas

The Routledge Handbook on Historic Urban Landscapes in the Asia-Pacific Kapila Silva, 2019-12-23 The Routledge Handbook on Historic Urban Landscapes in the Asia Pacific sheds light onto the balancing act of urban heritage management focusing specifically on the Asia Pacific regions in which this challenge is imminent and in need of effective solutions Urban heritage while being threatened amid myriad forces of global and ecological change provides a vital social cultural and economic asset for regeneration and sustenance of liveability of inhabited urban areas worldwide This six part volume takes a critical look at the concept of Historic Urban Landscapes the approach that UNESCO promotes to achieve holistic management of urban heritage through the lens of issues prospects and experiences of urban regeneration of the selected geo cultural context It further discusses the difficult task that heritage managers encounter in conceptualizing mapping curating and sustaining the plurality poetics and politics of urban heritage of the regions in question The connective thesis that weaves the chapters in this volume together reinforces for readers that the management of urban heritage considers cities as dynamic entities palimpsests of historical memories collages of social diversity territories of contested identities and sites for sustainable liveability Throughout this edited collection chapters argue for recognizing the totality of the eco cultural urban fabric embracing change building social cohesion and initiating strategic socio economic progress in the conservation of Historic Urban Landscapes Containing thirty seven contributions written by leading regional experts and illustrated with over 200 black and white images and tables this volume provides a much needed resource on Historic Urban Landscapes for students scholars and researchers

Human-Centered Built Environment Heritage Preservation Jeremy C. Wells, Barry L. Stiefel, 2018-09-20 Human Centered Built Environment Heritage

Preservation addresses the question of how a human centred conservation approach can and should change practice For the most part there are few answers to this question because professionals in the heritage conservation field do not use social science research methodologies to manage cultural landscapes assess historical significance and inform the treatment of building and landscape fabric With few exceptions only academic theorists have explored these topics while failing to offer specific usable guidance on how the social sciences can actually be used by heritage professionals In exploring the nature of a human centred heritage conservation practice we explicitly seek a middle ground between the academy and practice theory and application fabric and meanings conventional and civil experts and orthodox and heterodox ideas behind practice and research We do this by positioning this book in a transdisciplinary space between these dichotomies as a way to give voice and respect to multiple perspectives without losing sight of our goal that heritage conservation practice should fundamentally benefit all people We believe that this approach is essential for creating an emancipated built heritage conservation practice that must successfully engage very different ontological and epistemological perspectives

Jews and the Renaissance of Synagogue Architecture, 1450-1730 Barry L. Stiefel, 2015-10-06 Before the mid fifteenth century the Christian and Islamic governments of Europe had restricted the architecture and design of synagogues and often prevented Jews from becoming architects Stiefel presents a study of the material culture and religious architecture that this era produced

The Future of Heritage as Climates Change David Harvey, Jim Perry, 2015-04-24 Climate change is a critical issue for heritage studies Sites objects and ways of life all are coming under threat requiring alternative management or requiring specific climate change adaptation Heritage is key to interpreting the societal significance of climate change notions and images of the past are crucial to our understanding of the present and are used to prompt actions that help society define and achieve a specific and desired future Relatively little attention has been paid to the critical intersections between heritage and climate change The Future of Heritage as Climates Change frames the intellectual context within which heritage and climate change can be examined presenting cases and sub fields in which the heritage climate change nexus is being examined and provides synthetic analyses through five overarching themes The heritage of change among coastal communities liminality and the politics of engagement Dwelling materials processes and possibilities Environmental heritage meanings of the past prospects for the future Blurring the boundaries of nature and culture the politics of anticipation Climate change and heritage practice adaptation and resilience The Future of Heritage as Climates Change provides scholars managers policy makers and students with a much needed examination of heritage and climate change to help make critical decisions in the next several decades

Narrative Theory in Conservation Nigel Walter, 2020-03-11 Narrative Theory in Conservation engages with conservation heritage studies and architectural approaches to historic buildings offering a synthesis of the best of each and demonstrating that conservation is capable of developing a complementary but distinct theoretical position of its own Tracing the ideas behind the development of modern conservation in the West and considering the challenges presented by non Western practice the book engages with the premodern understanding of innovation within tradition and frames historic buildings as intergenerational communal ongoing narratives Redefining the appropriate object of conservation it suggests a practice of conserving the questions that animate and energize local cultures rather than only those instantiated answers that expert opinion has declared canonical Proposing a narrative approach to historic buildings the book provides a distinctive new theoretical foundation for conservation and a basis for a more equal dialogue with other disciplines concerned with the historic environment Narrative Theory in Conservation articulates a coherent theoretical position for conservation that addresses the urgent question of how historic buildings that remain in use should respond to change As such the book should be of great interest to academics researchers and postgraduate students from the fields of conservation heritage studies and architecture

Architectural Regeneration
Aylin Orbasli, Marcel Vellinga, 2020-08-03 A comprehensive and detailed overview of the active regeneration rehabilitation and revitalisation of architectural heritage The combined processes of globalisation urbanisation environmental change population growth and rapid technological development have resulted in an increasingly complex dynamic and interrelated world in which concerns about the meaning of cultural heritage and identity continue to grow As the need for culturally and environmentally sustainable design grows the challenge for professionals involved in the management of inherited built environments is to respond to this ever changing context in a critical dynamic and creative way Our knowledge and understanding of the principles approaches and methods to sustainably adapt existing buildings and places is rapidly expanding Architectural Regeneration contributes to this knowledge base through a holistic approach that links policy with practice and establishes a theoretical framework within which to understand architectural regeneration It includes extensive case studies of the regeneration rehabilitation and revitalisation of architectural heritage from around the world Different scales and contexts of architectural regeneration are discussed including urban suburban rural and temporary At a time when regeneration policy has shifted to the recognition that heritage matters and that the historic environment and creative industries are a vital driver of regeneration an increasing workload of architectural practices concerns the refurbishment adaptive re use or extension of existing buildings As a result this book is ideal for undergraduate and graduate students of architecture historic conservation urban and environmental design sustainability and urban regeneration as well as for practitioners and decision makers working in those fields

Creating Historic Preservation in the 21st Century de Teel Patterson Tiller, Richard D. Wagner, 2018-07-26 A must read for professionals and advocates of historic preservation who are concerned about preservation's future this volume is a compendium of powerful essays by thought leaders in the field first presented in 2016 as part of the fiftieth anniversary observation of the US National Historic Preservation Act Once primarily the concern of historians antiquarians and historic architects in the last century today historic preservation is a popular public movement a critical component of local land use ordinances a regional economic driver and a significant contributor to the nation's cultural identity. By any measure the preservation of the built environment has been a success. However as demographic, economic and technological changes alter our future, how will preservation be affected? How will changes in the natural environment and preservation education change the policies and practices of historic preservation during the 21st century? The contributors here, who are drawn from some of the leading academics and practitioners in preservation as well as environmentalists, economists and historians, provide answers to these and other questions about the future of historic preservation.

Creating Cultural Capital Olaf Kuhlke, Annick Schramme, Rene Kooyman, 2015-06-12

In recent years the global creative economy has experienced unprecedented growth. Considerable research has been conducted to determine what exactly the creative economy is, what occupations are grouped together as such, and how it is to be measured. Organizations on various scales from the United Nations to local governments have released creative or cultural economy reports, developed policies for creative urban renewal, and directed attention to creative placemaking, the purposeful infusion of creative activity into specific urban environments. Parallel to these research and policy interests, academic institutions and professional organizations have begun a serious discussion about training programs for future professionals in the creative and cultural industries. We now have entire colleges offering undergraduate and graduate programs leading to degrees in arts management, arts entrepreneurship, cultural management, cultural entrepreneurship, or cultural economics. And many professional organizations offer specialized training and certificates in cultural heritage, museums studies, entertainment and film. In this book we bring together over fifty scholars from across the globe to shed light on what we collectively call cultural entrepreneurship: the training of professionals for the creative industries who will be change agents and resourceful visionaries that organize cultural, financial, social, and human capital to generate revenue from a cultural and creative activity.

Part I of this volume begins with the observation that the creative industries and the cultural entrepreneurship generated within them are a global phenomenon. An increasingly mobile international workforce is moving cultural goods and services across national boundaries at unprecedented rates. As a result, the education of cultural professionals engaged in global commerce has become equally internationalized. Part II looks into the emergence of cultural entrepreneurship as a new academic discipline and interrogates the theoretical foundations that inform the pedagogy and training for the creative industries. Design thinking, humanities poetics, risk strategy, and the artist-entrepreneur dichotomy are at the heart of this discussion. Part III showcases the design of cultural entrepreneurship curricula and the pedagogies employed in teaching artists and culture industry specialists. Our authors examine pedagogy and curriculum at various scales and in national and international contexts, from the creation of entire new schools to undergraduate/graduate programs. Part IV provides case studies that focus on industry or sector-specific training, skills-based courses, information technology, social media, entrepreneurial competitions, and more. Part V concludes the book with selected examples of practitioner training for the cultural industries as it is offered outside of academia. In addition, this section provides examples of how professionals outside of academia have informed academic training and course work Readers will find conceptual frameworks for building new programs for the creative industries examples of pedagogical approaches and skillsbased training that are based on research and student assessments and concrete examples of program and course implementation     Leadership in Education Pamela Adams,Carmen Mombourquette,David Townsend,2019-12-20 Leadership in Education is an evocative forward looking text that is grounded in years of research gathered in hundreds of schools and across districts The text calls teachers supervisors and school administrators to action in the classroom demonstrating effective leadership skills that affirm mutual respect build trust stimulate reflection strengthen partnerships and use inquiry to direct action Building multi faceted and nuanced links between educational leadership school improvement teaching effectiveness and student learning this succinct and compelling guide offers highly effective strategies for provoking meaningful growth in the classroom The authors guide the reader through the process of using generative dialogue in leadership roles from provocation to reflection a shift in thinking and implementation of highly effective leadership practices The volume reinforces the ethical responsibility of educators to focus on practices that provide optimal learning environments for all students Both an academic resource and an interactive manual Leadership in Education features literature reviews suggested readings a glossary thought provocations and case studies with reflection questions to encourage deeper learning Grounded in lived experiences and brimming with real stories of educators this critical guidebook is ideal for graduate students in education and leadership programs     Documentation Abstracts ,1985     India Indian National Congress.
