of his style in the period 1890-1915. The Diary of a Man of Fifty Henry James, 2021-06-10. Henry James (15 April 1843 – 28 February 1916) was an American author. He is regarded as a key transitional figure between literary realism and literary modernism and is considered by many to be among the greatest novelists in the English language. He was the son of Henry James Sr. and the brother of renowned philosopher and psychologist William James and diarist Alice James. He is best known for a number of novels dealing with the social and marital interplay between migré Americans, English people, and continental Europeans. Examples of such novels include The Portrait of a Lady, The Ambassadors, and The Wings of the Dove. His later works were increasingly experimental. In describing the internal states of mind and social dynamics of his characters, James often made use of a style in which ambiguous or contradictory motives and impressions were overlaid or juxtaposed in the discussion of a character's psyche. For their unique ambiguity, as well as for other aspects of their composition, his late works have been compared to impressionist painting. His novella The Turn of the Screw has garnered a reputation as the most analysed and ambiguous ghost story in the English language and remains his most widely adapted work in other media. He also wrote a number of other highly regarded ghost stories and is considered one of the greatest masters of the field. James published articles and books of criticism, travel biography autobiography and plays Born in the United States James largely relocated to Europe as a young man and eventually settled in England becoming a British citizen in 1915 one year before his death James was nominated for the Nobel Prize in Literature in 1911 1912 and 1916 James is one of the major figures of trans Atlantic literature His works frequently juxtapose characters from the Old World Europe embodying a feudal civilisation that is beautiful often corrupt and alluring and from the New World United States where people are often brash open and assertive and embody the virtues of the new American society particularly personal freedom and a more highly evolved moral character James explores this clash of personalities and cultures in stories of personal relationships in which power is exercised well or badly His protagonists were often young American women facing oppression or abuse and as his secretary Theodora Bosanquet remarked in her monograph Henry James at Work When he walked out of the refuge of his study and into the world and looked around him he saw a place of torment where creatures of prey perpetually thrust their claws into the quivering flesh of doomed defenseless children of light His novels are a repeated exposure of this wickedness a reiterated and passionate plea for the fullest freedom of development unimpered by reckless and barbarous stupidity Philip Guedalla jokingly described three phases in the development of James s prose James I James II and The Old Pretender and observers do often group his works of fiction into three periods In his apprentice years culminating with the masterwork The Portrait of a Lady his style was simple and direct and he experimented widely with forms and methods generally narrating from a conventionally omniscient point of view Plots generally concern romance except for the three big novels of social commentary that conclude this period In the second period as noted above he abandoned the serialized novel and from 1890 to about 1897 he wrote short stories and plays
