A re evaluation of the meaning and function of diaspora in contemporary Israeli culture This thought provoking exploration of literature and art examines contemporary Israeli works created in and about diaspora that exemplify new ways of envisioning a Jewish national identity Diaspora has become a popular mechanism to imagine non sovereign models of Jewish peoplehood but these models often valorize powerlessness in sometimes troubling ways In this book Melissa Weininger theorizes a new category of diaspora Israeli culture that is formed around and through notions of homeland and complicate the binary between diaspora and Israel The works addressed here inhabit and imagine diaspora from the vantage point of the putative homeland engaging both diasporic and Zionist models simultaneously through language geography and imagination These examples contend with the existence of the state of Israel and its complex implications for diaspora Jewish identities and nationalisms as well as the implications for Zionism of those diasporic conceptions of Jewish national identity This dynamic understanding of both an Israeli and a Jewish diaspora works to envision a non hegemonic Jewish nationalism that can negotiate both political imagination and reality Multiculturalism in Israel Adia Mendelson-Maoz,2015-03-15

By analyzing its position within the struggles for recognition and reception of different national and ethnic cultural groups this book offers a bold new picture of Israeli literature Through comparative discussion of the literatures of Palestinian citizens of Israel of Mizrahim of migrants from the former Soviet Union and of Ethiopian Israelis the author demonstrates an unexpected richness and diversity in the Israeli literary scene a reality very different from the monocultural image that Zionism aspired to create Drawing on a wide body of social and literary theory Mendelson Maoz compares and contrasts the literatures of the four communities she profiles In her discussion of the literature of the Palestinian citizens of Israel she presents the question of language and translation and she provides three case studies of particular authors and their reception Her study of Mizrahi literature adopts a chronological approach starting in the 1950s and proceeding toward contemporary Mizrahi writing while discussing questions of authenticity and self determination The discussion of Israeli literature written by immigrants from the former Soviet Union focuses both on authors who write Israeli literature in Russian and of Russian immigrants writing in Hebrew The final section of the book provides a valuable new discussion of the work of Ethiopian Israeli writers a group whose contributions have seldom been previously acknowledged The picture that emerges from this groundbreaking book replaces the traditional homogeneous historical narrative of Israeli literature with a diversity of voices a multiplicity of origins and a wide range of different perspectives In doing so it will provoke researchers in a wide
