Desegregating Comics Qiana Whitted,2023-05-12 Some comics fans view the industry s Golden Age 1930s 1950s as a challenging time when it comes to representations of race an era when the few Black characters appeared as brutal savages devious witch doctors or unintelligible minstrels Yet the true portrait is more complex and reveals that even as caricatures predominated some Golden Age comics creators offered more progressive and nuanced depictions of Black people

Desegregating Comics assembles a team of leading scholars to explore how debates about the representation of Blackness shaped both the production and reception of Golden Age comics Some essays showcase rare titles like Negro Romance and consider the formal innovations introduced by Black comics creators like Matt Baker and Alvin Hollingsworth while others examine the treatment of race in the work of such canonical cartoonists as George Herriman and Will Eisner The collection also investigates how Black fans read and loved comics but implored publishers to stop including hurtful stereotypes As this book shows Golden Age comics artists writers editors distributors and readers engaged in heated negotiations over how Blackness should be portrayed and the outcomes of those debates continue to shape popular culture today

Death's Daughter and the Ebony Blade: Volume 6 Maito Ayamine,2023-10-16 Olivia and Felix finally meet on the same battlefield After successfully mounting a daring plan the Second Allied Legion of Fernest and Mekia now marches on the imperial capital of Olsted If they take the city and the emperor they can put an end to the war that engulfs the continent In their way stand the Azure Knights the most elite warriors in the empire unleashed at last They are a foe unlike any Olivia and her allies have faced so far and their commander Felix may be the only human alive who can match Olivia s might Outside this clash of nations still more shadowy forces are rising The assassins of the Asura will stop at nothing to see Olivia dead and unbeknownst to all Darm s and Zenia's plans are approaching fruition Will Olivia lead her allies to victory or has her end finally come The Ebony Column Eric Ashley Hairston, 2013-06-30 In The Ebony Column Eric Ashley Hairston begins a new thread in the ongoing conversation about the influence of Greek and Roman antiquity on U.S. civilization and education While that discussion has yielded many exceptional insights into antiquity and the American experience it has so regularly elided the African American component that all classical influence on black writing and thought seems to vanish That omission Hairston contends is disturbing not least because of its longevity from an early period of overt stereotyping and institutionalized racism right up to the contemporary and one would hope more cosmopolitan and enlightened era Challenging and correcting that persistent shortsightedness Hairston examines several prominent black writers and scholars deep investment in the classics as individuals as well as the broader cultural investment in the classics and the values of the ancient world Beginning with the late eighteenth century verse of Phillis Wheatley whose classically inspired poems functioned as a kind of Trojan horse to defeat white oppression Hairston goes on to consider the oratory of Frederick Douglass whose rhetoric and ideas of virtue were much influenced by Cicero and the writings of educator Anna Julia Cooper whose classical training was a key source of her vibrant feminism Finally he offers a fresh examination of W.E.B. DuBois's seminal The Souls of Black Folk 1903 and its debt to antiquity which volumes of commentary have largely overlooked The first book to appear in a new series Classicism in American Culture The Ebony Column passionately demonstrates how the myths, cultures and ideals of antiquity helped African Americans reconceptualize their role in a Euro American world determined to make them mere economic commodities and emblems of moral and intellectual decay To figures such as Wheatley, Douglass, Cooper and DuBois classical literature offered striking moral, intellectual and philosophical alternatives to a viciously exclusionary vision of humanity Africanity, the life of the citizen and the life of the mind Ebony, 1987-10 EBONY is the flagship magazine of Johnson Publishing Founded in 1945 by John H.
