A large number of investigators from North America and Europe met to discuss available data on how the immune system responds to silicones and related materials. Some aspects of this field are controversial. Nonetheless, the meeting was marked by a civil and open exchange of scientific information and divergent interpretations reflecting the traditions of scientific communication. Each invited participant was asked to submit an article summarizing his/her presentation. Most of the papers are published as submitted with only editorial changes to conform with the guidelines given to each contributor or revisions to clarify aspects of the paper. The papers should not be regarded as peer-reviewed publications. This preface will attempt to outline some of the immunological areas of investigation relating to silicones. Morris, 2019-01-14 Overlooked even despised by historians of chemistry for many years the genre of biography has enjoyed a revival since the beginning of this century The key to its renaissance is the use of the biographical form to provide a contextual analysis of important themes in contrast to the uncritical almost hagiographic lives of chemists written in the earlier part of the twentieth century Bringing together the contributions of scholars active in several different countries Perspectives on Chemical Biography in the 21st Century leads the reader through emerging questions around sources and the generic problems faced by authors of biographies before moving on to discuss aspects more related with physical theoretical and inorganic chemistry and facets of 19th century chemistry In contrast to the letters and diaries of earlier chemists we are now faced with scientists who communicate by telephone and email and compose their documents on computers Are we facing a modern equivalent of the destruction of the Library of Alexandria where all our sources are wiped out electronically
