CURRICULUM STUDIES

1. As a sports coach, you have a learner who feels that physical education classes do not hold any value for him. Write down how you would explain to him what the value of participating in physical education is.

As the teacher I will call the learner in and we have a chat and will explain to him in detail what he will gain when he does physical education with other learners. Physical education is a way to express yourself as a person and be able to discover what you can do with your body in regards to movements and pace and direction in which it can move. As a learner you will also be able to express your feelings through movements and participation, physical education also helps learners to know other learners better in school by taking part and learning to socialize with others is also a skills that comes out of it. You will also find that the body will be more relaxed and there will be less tension when you do physical education compared to learners who don't do it.

A lot of the times learners learn about their bodies and they develop physically through this program, learn to play games and sports and how to work with other people. Physical education has great value in teaching team work with different learners and that can make learners enjoy the program. Through physical education you also find that you might be good at different sports without knowing.

3. Based on what you have learnt about growth and development, explain five important considerations for the physical education teacher when working with children.

1. Safety – As a teacher you have to make sure that the playing area is safe and children won't get injured while doing the program
2. Inclusiveness – You will have to make sure that all the learners are included in the program and no one is left out as this might cause tension in the class/between learners.
3. Fun- Is the activities are not fun then the learners won't do them and will not look forward to the class
4. Level of difficulty – the ability of the learners needs to match the difficulty level of the activity to slightly challenge the learners and not make them feel like they are not good enough.
