Performance in Internal Control Evaluation James Lloyd Bierstaker, 1998 SAS No 78 requires that on every engagement auditors obtain a quot sufficient understanding of internal control to plan the audit and determine the nature, timing, and extent of audit testing.

AICPA 1995 Two formats that have been used by auditors in the past to document their understanding of internal control are the narrative and flowchart.

Mock and Turner 1981 Cushing and Loebbecke 1986 Purvis 1989 The choice of documentation format is important because it may affect the way auditors encode, retrieve, and evaluate information.

Frederick 1992 The purpose of this study is to examine if documentation format (the internal control flowchart or narrative) affects the recall and evaluation of internal control information and how task-specific knowledge mediates this effect.

There were three major findings in this study:

- First, auditors who read a narrative and updated a flowchart outperformed those auditors who only read a narrative when evaluating internal control.
- Second, auditors who read a narrative and received an incomplete flowchart recalled less uncued information than those who only read a narrative consistent with part list interference.
- Third, higher levels of internal control knowledge were associated with better performance when evaluating control weaknesses but not control strengths.

The Influence of Internal Control Structure on Auditor Risk Assessments Tamara Ann August-Crook, 2009 ABSTRACT Previous studies of audit task structure and auditor knowledge structure have concluded that judgment performance is improved when a match between structures exists.

Auditing Standard No. 5: An Audit of Internal Control Over Financial Reporting That is Integrated with an Audit of Financial Statements 2007 AS No. 5 establishes a top-down task structure on the audit of internal control over financial reporting. The new AS No. 5 structure, unlike most other internal control task structures, includes a hierarchical analysis of both schematically and taxonomically organized information. Prior research suggests that auditor knowledge structures of internal controls are organized both schematically by transaction flow and taxonomically by audit objective. This study investigates how an auditing task characteristic (task structure) interacts with decision maker characteristics (attention and knowledge structure) to examine whether the new AS No. 5 task structure of internal control evaluation affects governmental auditors' processing of internal controls in three audit tasks: control risk assessment, analytic risk assessment, and pattern identification. Results indicate that auditors were better able to sort internal controls according to a traditional internal control task format as compared to the new AS No 5 task format However results also suggest that in a weak control environment the task format of AS No 5 affected auditor ability to weight cues as evidenced by control risk assessments and assessments of the probability of misstatement such that risk assessments were greater in the AS No 5 treatment than those of auditors using a categorical task structure Finally study findings support prior literature that suggests that as task complexity increases auditor problem solving ability correlates with improved decision performance
