Young Children's Literacy Development and the Role of Televisual Texts Naima Browne, 2005-06-22 Explores and analyses the ways in which very young children's developing literacy can be supported by their experience of watching TV and videos This book addresses ways teachers can use children's experience of watching stories on video or TV to feed back into their own story writing reading story telling and role play in the classroom Explores areas specifically highlighted in the National Curriculum for English and will benefit teachers developing their literacy teaching in light of the government Literacy Hour initiative Serialization, Commercialization and the Children's Classics Amy Webster, 2024-12-12 An exploration of the serialization of children's classics by contemporary publishers this book digs into the impact of the practice and provides new ways of reading the corpus of British children's literature from the 20th century Amy Webster demonstrates how publishers select texts for their series which texts they omit which outliers are sometimes included and how a core group of works from the golden age of children's literature emerged The text also examines how texts are abridged and transformed from publisher to publisher through close readings of The Wind in the Willows and Alice's Adventures in Wonderland and how the repackaging of works within a series highlight issues and choices tied to key paratextual elements Analysing data through distant reading and close reading of series from Ladybird Longman Puffin and Walker Illustrated editions this book sheds light on how modern classics series are marked by variation and instability but also a reductive homogeneity Through her use of quantitative and text focused research Webster reveals how commercial motivations have created a gulf between the canonical concepts of the classic and how the term functions as a marketing tool in British children's publishing. With notions of what counts as a classic compromised and complicated, this book leads the call for a critical approach towards both the term classic and to reading children's classics that acknowledges how they are tied to the commercial enterprises of the children's book business.

Historical Dictionary of Children's Literature Emer O'Sullivan, 2010-11-22. Children's literature comes from a number of different sources: folklore, folk and fairy tales, books originally for adults and subsequently adapted for children, and material authored specifically for them and its audience. It ranges from infants through middle graders to young adults, readers from about 12 to 18 years old. Its forms include picturebooks, pop-up books, anthologies, novels, merchandising tie-ins, novelizations, and multimedia texts, and its genres include adventure stories, drama, science fiction, poetry, and information books. The Historical Dictionary of Children's Literature relates the history of children's literature through a chronology, an introductory essay, appendixes, a bibliography, and over 500 cross-referenced dictionary entries on authors, books, and genres. Some of the most legendary names in all of literature are covered in this important reference, including Hans Christian Andersen, L. Frank Baum, Lewis Carroll, Roald Dahl, Charles Dickens, C. S. Lewis, Beatrix Potter, J. K. Rowling, Robert Louis Stevenson, Mark Twain, J. R. R. Tolkien, Jules Verne, and E. B. White.
