Promise of Things Ruth Quibell,2016-10-03 Some of our strongest most lasting relationships are hidden in plain view those we have with objects What do our possessions do for us And how do they do it In The Promise of Things Ruth Quibell explores what our possessions say about us who we think we are what we long for and struggle against It invites us to think about how we use things what makes them precious and why we find it so hard to throw these objects away

Six in a Bed Roanne van Voorst,2024-04-02 Love is the most important and intense experience of our life It pushes us to elation to heartbreak to sing for joy and sob in disappointment Connecting in this way to others is an essential quality of being human without love we don t learn and develop properly as children and we don t flourish as adults in short we re starved of what we need But love is on the verge of monumental change Sex robots are already on the market polyamory is gaining ground drugs are being developed that can make you fall in love and AI and robotics are set to revolutionize how we relate to each other Debates about whether more than two people should be able legally to get married are heating up at the same time an increasing number of people have decided to stay single and who go by the name of sologamists The futures anthropologist Roanne van Voorst spent three years researching love s fluid landscape and immersing herself in today s latest trends to gain insight into the human of tomorrow She cultivated a virtual friendship hired a rentable friend and an erotic masseuse shared a bed with sex dolls and flirted with artificial intelligence She dated and danced in a virtual world spoke to polyamorists sologamists sex workers pansexuals asexuals heterosexuals homosexuals men women and people who don t accept the binary gender label She wanted to know how changes to love are changing our species This book is her brilliantly engaging answer

Climate Change across the Curriculum Eric J. Fretz,2015-12-24 Climate Change across the Curriculum examines ways of thinking and conveying information about climate change across university curricula and within academic disciplines The contributors provide methods strategies rationales and theoretical justifications for teaching climate issues at the university level The content of this book aims to introduce climate change to classes outside of the sciences as it will take a wide range of disciplines broader institutional thinking and experimentation to fully engage university resources and knowledge toward the mitigation of fossil fuel consumption and adaptation to the negative consequences of climate change Climate Change across the Curriculum encourages professors to engage salient aspects of their academic disciplines to the study of climate issues in the classroom as well as sample theories practices and resources from a wide range of academic disciplines outside of their own areas of specialization The contributors ask what role will higher education play in addressing environmental challenges and producing students who become professionals who accomplish work that solves these problems Environmental Law: A Very Short Introduction Elizabeth Fisher, 2017-10-19

Environmental law is the law concerned with environmental problems. It is a vast area of law that operates from the local to the global involving a range of different legal and regulatory techniques. In theory, environmental protection is a no-brainer. Few people would actively argue for pollution or environmental destruction. Ensuring a clean environment is ethically desirable and also sensible from a purely self-interested perspective. Yet in practice, environmental law is a messy and complex business fraught with conflict. Whilst environmental law is often characterized in overly simplistic terms with a law being seen as being a magic wand that solves an environmental problem, the reality is that creating and maintaining a body of laws to address and avoid problems is not easy and involves legislators, courts, regulators, and communities. This Very Short Introduction provides an overview of the main features of environmental law and discusses how environmental law deals with multiple interests, socio-political conflicts, and the limits of knowledge about the environment. Showing how interdependent societies across the world have developed robust and legitimate bodies of law to address environmental problems, Elizabeth Fisher discusses some of the major issues involved in environmental law: statehood, power, the reframing role of law, the need to ensure real environmental improvements, and environmental justice. As Fisher explains, environmental law is and will always be necessary but inherently controversial.

Posthuman Glossary Rosi Braidotti, Maria Hlavajova, 2018-02-22

If art, science, and the humanities have shared one thing, it was their common engagement with constructions and representations of the human. Under the pressure of new contemporary concerns, however, we are experiencing a posthuman condition: the combination of new developments such as the neoliberal economics of global capitalism, migration, technological advances, environmental destruction on a mass scale, the perpetual war on terror, and extensive security systems with a troublesome reiteration of old unresolved problems that mean the concept of the human as we had previously known it has undergone dramatic transformations. The Posthuman Glossary is a volume providing an outline of the critical terms of posthumanity in present-day artistic and intellectual work. It builds on the broad thematic topics of Anthropocene, Capitalocene, eco-sophies, digital activism, algorithmic cultures, and security, and the inhuman. It outlines potential artistic, intellectual, and activist itineraries of working through the complex reality of the posthuman condition and creates an understanding of the altered meanings of art vis-à-vis critical present-day developments. It bridges missing links across disciplines, terminologies, constituencies, and critical communities. This original work will unlock the terms of the posthuman for students and researchers alike.

Recollections of My Nonexistence Rebecca Solnit,2020-03-10 Shortlisted for the James Tait Black Prize for Biography Longlisted for The Orwell Prize for Political Writing An electric portrait of the artist as a young woman that asks how a writer finds her voice in a society that prefers women to be silent from the author of Rose in Recollections of My Nonexistence Rebecca Solnit describes her formation as a writer and as a feminist in 1980s San Francisco in an atmosphere of gender violence on the street and throughout society and the exclusion of women from cultural arenas She tells of being poor hopeful and adrift in the city that became her great teacher and of the small apartment that when she was nineteen became the home in which she transformed herself She explores the forces that liberated her as a person and as a writer books themselves the gay community that presented a new model of what else gender family and joy could mean and her eventual arrival in the spacious landscapes and overlooked conflicts of the American West Beyond being a memoir Solnit's book is also a passionate argument that women are not just impacted by personal experience but by membership in a society where violence against women pervades Looking back she describes how she came to recognize that her own experiences of harassment and menace were inseparable from the systemic problem of who has a voice or rather who is heard and respected and who is silenced and how she was galvanized to use her own voice for change Best of 2015, 2015-10-17 Selections from Trinity University Press's best books of 2015 Unsettling Elizabeth Weinberg, 2022-10-18 The time has come to reimagine our relationship to the environment before it is too late As wildfires char the American West extreme weather transforms landscapes glaciers retreat and climate zones shift we are undeniably experiencing the effects of the climate crisis in more and more destructive ways Climate change is impacting every inhabited region of the world but there is much we can still do Unsettling explores human impacts on the environment through science popular culture personal narrative and landscape Using the stories of animals landscapes and people who have exhibited resilience in the face of persistent colonization across the North American continent science writer Elizabeth Weinberg explores how climate change is a direct result of white supremacy colonialism sexism and heteronormativity Travel through the deep sea along Louisiana's vanishing bayous down the Colorado Mississippi and Potomac rivers and over the Cascade Mountains and examine how we as humans particularly white humans have drawn a stark line between human and animal culture and nature in order to exploit anything and anyone we find useful With gorgeous and pointed prose Weinberg weaves together science personal essay history and pop culture to propose a new way of thinking about climate change one that is rooted in queerness and antiracism The Broadview Anthology of Expository Prose - Third Canadian Edition Laura Buzzard, Don LePan, Nora Ruddock, Alexandria Stuart, 2017-08-08 The third Canadian edition of this anthology has been substantially revised and updated for a contemporary audience a selection of classic essays from earlier eras has been retained but the emphasis is very much on twenty first century expository writing There is also a focus on issues of great importance in twenty first century Canada such as climate change the Truth and Reconciliation Commission the Jian Ghomeshi trial Facebook police discrimination trans rights and postsecondary education in the humanities Works of different lengths and levels of difficulty are represented as are narrative descriptive and persuasive essays and new to this edition lyric essays For the new edition

there are also considerably more short pieces than ever before a number of op ed pieces are included as are pieces from blogs and from online news sources The representation of academic writing from several disciplines has been increased and in some cases the anthology also includes news reports presenting the results of academic research to a general audience Also new to this edition are essays from a wide range of the most celebrated prose writers of the modern era from Susan Sontag Eula Biss and Michel Foucault to Anne Carson and Ta Nehisi Coates The anthology also offers increased diversity of representation including for example a larger proportion of First Nations writers and women writers than previous Canadian editions Unobtrusive explanatory notes appear at the bottom of the page and each selection is preceded by a headnote that provides students with information regarding the context in which the piece was written Each reading is also followed by questions for discussion A unique feature is the inclusion of a set of additional notes on the anthology s companion website notes designed to be of particular help to EAL students and or students who have little familiarity with Canadian culture The anthology is accompanied by two companion websites The student website features additional readings and interactive writing exercises as well as the additional notes The instructor website provides additional discussion questions and for a number of the anthology selections background information that may be of interest
