Light Up the Night Travis Lupick, 2022-01-04 A revelatory moving narrative that offers a harrowing critique of the war on drugs from voices seldom heard in the conversation drug users who are working on the front lines to reduce overdose deaths Media coverage has established a clear narrative of the overdose crisis In the 1990s pharmaceutical corporations flooded America with powerful narcotics while lying about their risk many patients developed addictions to prescription opioids then as access was restricted waves of people turned to the streets and began using heroin and later the dangerous synthetic opioid fentanyl But that s not the whole story It fails to acknowledge how the war on drugs has exacerbated the crisis and leaves out one crucial voice that of drug users themselves Across the country people who use drugs are organizing in response to a record number of overdose deaths They are banding together to save lives and demanding equal rights Set against the backdrop of the overdose crisis Light Up the Night provides an intimate look at how users navigate the policies that criminalize them It chronicles a rising movement that s fighting to save lives end stigma and inspire commonsense policy reform Told through embedded reporting focused on two activists Jess Tilley in Massachusetts and Louise Vincent in North Carolina this is the story of the courageous people stepping in where government has failed They are standing on the front lines of an underground effort to help people with addictions use drugs safely reduce harms and live with dignity
