Excretory System: PROBLEMS

Much of the time, the excretory system works perfectly well. However, sometimes problems can arise.

Urinary Tract Infection (UTI)
A UTI is an infection in any part of the urinary system. Cells that line the urinary tract can become infected. Most often, the bladder is affected. Symptoms include a burning sensation when urinating, frequent urination, and cloudy or bloody urine.

Kidney Stones
Kidney stones are hard deposits made of minerals and salts that build up in the kidneys. They can cause pain and blood in the urine. Some stones pass on their own, but some need medical treatment. Kidney stones may also lead to urinary tract infections.

Chronic Kidney Disease
Kidney disease is a condition in which the kidneys are damaged and cannot filter blood properly. It can lead to complications such as high blood pressure, anemia, and bone disease. Treatment includes diet changes, medications, and dialysis.

Excretory System: KEY TERMS

Term	Definition
Excretory System	Body system that eliminates waste from the body.

Excretory System: EXCRETION

Excretion is the process of removing waste and excess water from the body. It is one of the four main body systems. The others are the digestive system, the circulatory system, and the respiratory system. Although they all remove wastes, they don't work together in the same way that organs of other body systems do.

The KIDNEYS are a pair of bean-shaped organs on either side of the spine, about 4 to 5 inches long. They filter blood and remove waste. They also produce urine. The kidneys are part of the excretory system.

Excretion by sweating. Skin is the largest organ in the body. It has many small glands, called sweat glands, that produce sweat. Sweat is made up of water and salt. When it evaporates, it cools the body. This is how the body gets rid of excess heat.

Excretory System: WORKING TOGETHER

Each organ system works with other systems within the body to do its "job". Sometimes, there are some of the organs that the excretory system works with other organ systems.

Nervous System

Endocrine System

The endocrine system produces hormones. Hormones are chemical messengers that help control many body functions. They travel through the bloodstream to target organs. The endocrine system works with the excretory system to maintain balance in the body.

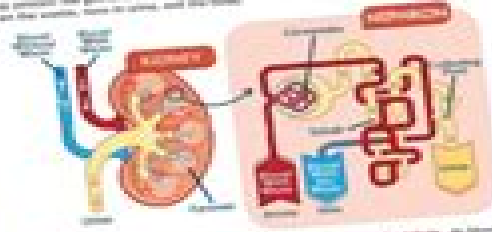

Excretory System: FUNCTIONS

The main functions of the excretory system are:

- BALANCE WATER LEVELS
- REMOVE WASTE
- CONTROL BLOOD PRESSURE

Excretory System: THE KIDNEY

Each kidney is made up of about a million filtering units called nephrons. Each nephron includes a tiny ball called the glomerulus and a tubule. The nephrons work together to filter blood and remove waste. They also produce urine.

Excretory System: URINARY SYSTEM

How It Works

The excretory system filters blood and removes waste. It also produces urine. The kidneys are the main organs of the excretory system. They filter blood and remove waste. They also produce urine.

Excretory System: WHAT IS URINE?

Urine is a waste material excreted by the kidneys. It is one of the body's main ways of eliminating many different compounds that could be toxic to the body if they were to build up.

Water is the main component of urine. Water carries nutrients to all cells and allows the body to produce and maintain minerals, vitamins, proteins, salts, glucose, and other substances. Water helps the regulate body temperature. It also helps to flush out toxins and waste by dissolving them so they can be excreted in urine.

Part of Urine	More Information
Urea	Urea is produced when the liver breaks down proteins. It is excreted by the kidneys. It is a waste product.
Uric Acid	Comes from the breakdown of purines, a compound found in many different foods.
Electrolytes	Electrolytes are used to regulate the fluid balance of the body. Some are excreted.
Glucose	Waste product that comes from the breakdown of food.
