

Chapter 1

Chapter 1 – the summer of 1922

In Chapter 1 Nick begins his narration of the events of the summer of 1922. We are made aware that this is a retrospective narrative and that there is a gap between the events and Nick's retelling of them of one to two years (1923 to 1924): 'When I came back from the East last autumn' (Chapter 1, p8). We are reminded again of this at several points along the way. Gatsby's death happens before the beginning of the novel. This gives Gatsby's death a predetermined quality – it is inescapable. All of the characters' fates are already decided.

- What does this approach reveal about the way in which Fitzgerald chooses to tell the story of Jay Gatsby (and his narrator Nick Carraway). What do you notice? How do you think this might impact on your response to the events and the characters?

Remember AO1 is being able to use technical terms when discussing a novel or poem.
