The Imp Of The Perverse:

The Imp of the Perverse Edgar Allan Poe, 2013-11 The Imp of the Perverse is a short story that begins as an essay written by 19th century American author and critic Edgar Allan Poe It discusses the narrator's self destructive impulses embodied as the symbolic metaphor of The Imp of the Perverse The narrator describes this spirit as the agent that tempts a person to do things merely because we feel we should not The narrator explains at length his theory on The Imp of the Perverse which he believes causes people to commit acts against their self interest This essay like discussion is presented objectively though the narrator admits that he is one of the many uncounted victims of the Imp of the Perverse He then explains how his conviction for murder was the result of this The narrator murders a man using a candle that emits a poisonous vapor The victim enjoyed reading in bed at night and using the candle for illumination dies in his poorly ventilated room No evidence is left behind causing the coroner to believe the man's death is an act of God The narrator inherits the man's estate and knowing he can never be caught enjoys the benefits of his murderous act for many years The narrator remains unsuspected though he occasionally reassures himself by repeating under his breath I am safe One day he notes that he will remain safe only if he is not foolish enough to openly confess In saying so however he begins to question if he is capable of confessing He fearfully runs through the streets arousing suspicion When finally stopped he feels struck by some invisible fiend He reveals his secret with distinct enunciation though in such a hurry as if afraid of being interrupted He is quickly tried and convicted of murder and sentenced to death by hanging The Imp of the Perverse begins as an essay rather than as a work of fiction a format that Poe previously used in The Premature Burial It is therefore less about plot and more about theory As Poe describes this theory We stand upon the brink of a precipice We peer into the abyss we grow sick and dizzy Our first impulse is to shrink away from the danger Unaccountably we remain it is but a thought although a fearful one and one which chills the very marrow of our bones with the fierceness of the delight of its horror It is merely the idea of what would be our sensations during the sweeping precipitancy of a fall from such a height for this very cause do we now the most vividly desire it The work theorizes that all people have self destructive tendencies including the narrator The narrator's ultimate confession as a murderer is not inspired by any feelings of guilt but instead from a desire to publicize his actions despite knowing that he should not

The Imp of the Perverse Edgar Allan Poe, 2014-05-31 IN THE consideration of the faculties and impulses of the prima mobilia of the human soul the phrenologists have failed to make room for a propensity which although obviously existing as a radical primitive irreducible sentiment has been equally overlooked by all the moralists who have preceded them In the pure arrogance of the reason we have all overlooked it We have suffered its existence to escape our senses solely through want of belief of faith whether it be faith in Revelation or faith in the Kabbala The idea of it has never occurred to us simply because of its supererogation

Poe and the Subversion of American Literature Robert T. Tally Jr., 2014-01-16 Choice Outstanding Academic Title 2014 In Poe and the Subversion of American Literature Robert T. Tally Jr argues that Edgar Allan Poe is best understood not merely as a talented artist or canny magazinist but primarily as a practical joker who employs satire and fantasy to poke fun at an emergent nationalist discourse circulating in the United States Poe's satirical and fantastic mode on display even in his apparently serious short stories and literary criticism undermines the earnest attempts to establish a distinctively national literature in the nineteenth century In retrospect Poe's work also subtly subverts the tenets of an institutionalized American Studies in the twentieth century Tally interprets Poe's life and works in light of his own social milieu and in relation to the disciplinary field of American literary studies finding Poe to be neither the po te maudit of popular mythology nor the representative American writer revealed by recent scholarship Rather Poe is an untimely figure whose work ultimately makes a mockery of those who would seek to contain it Drawing upon Gilles Deleuze's distinction between nomad thought and state philosophy Tally argues that Poe's varied literary and critical writings represent an alternative to American literature Through his satirical critique of U.S. national culture and his otherworldly projection of a postnational space of the imagination Poe establishes a subterranean nomadic and altogether worldly literary practice
