The Upas Tree: A Christmas Story for All the Year Florence Louisa Barclay, 1912-01-01 Ronald West stood at the window of his wife's sitting room looking across the bright garden borders to the wide park beyond and wondering how on earth he should open the subject of which his mind had been full during their morning ride He had swung off his own horse a few moments before thrown the bridle to a waiting groom and made his way round to her stirrup Then he had laid his hand upon Silverheels mane and looking up into his wife's glowing handsome face he had said May I come to your room for a talk Helen I have something very important to tell you Helen had smiled down upon him I thought my cavalier was miles away from his horse and his wife during most of the ride But if he proposes taking me on the same distant journey he shall be forgiven Also I have something to tell you Ronnie and I see the turret clock gives us an hour before luncheon I must scribble out a message for the village then I will come to you at once without stopping to change She laid her hand on his shoulder and dropped lightly to the ground Then telling the groom to wait she passed into the hall Ronald left her standing at the table walked into the sitting room alone and suddenly realised that when you have thought of a thing continuously day and night during the best part of a week and kept it to yourself it is not easy to begin explaining it to another person even though that other person be your always kind always understanding altogether perfect wife He had forgotten to leave his hat and gloves in the hall He now tossed them into a chair Helen's own particular chair it so happened but kept his riding crop in his hand and thwacked his leather gaiters with it as he stood in the bay window It was such a perfect spring morning The sun shone in through the old fashioned lattice panes Some silly old person of a bygone century had scratched with a diamond on one of these a rough cross and beneath it the motto In hoc vince Ronald had inveighed against this If Helen's old ancestor having nothing better to do had wanted to write down a Latin motto he should have put it in his pocket book or better still on the even more transitory pages of the blotter instead of scribbling on the beautiful diamond panes of the old Grange windows But Helen had laughed and said I should think he lived before the time of blotters dear No doubt the morning sun was shining on the glass Ronnie as he stood at the window It was of the cross gleaming in the sunlight that he wrote In this conquer If we could but remember it the path of self sacrifice and clear shining is always the way to victory
