□□□□□□ Classic of Poetry Origin text & Translation , The Classic of Poetry Shijing is an anthology of ancient Chinese poems that captures the common sentiments of the people living at that time Reading the Classic of Poetry reveals that while times change core values remain largely the same Although it is an ancient text the Classic of Poetry forms a significant part of the linguistic elements and reflects literary aspects The vocabulary and grammar used are different However understanding its style allows us to envision the lives of people in that era This book presents the original text of all 305 poems from the Classic of Poetry along with Korean and English translations and includes Korean style Chinese pronunciation according to the interpretations Reading the Classic of Poetry requires a somewhat deep understanding of Chinese characters and classical Chinese However those who have been interested in and studied classical Chinese will likely find it comprehensible Similarly this editor initially knew some Chinese characters and classical Chinese but could not interpret the Classic of Poetry at all After grasping certain patterns however the author became able to read most of it There are differences between the Korean and English translations with some expressions being closer to literal translation and others leaning towards free translation Reading them with adjustments may allow for a comprehensive understanding of the meaning For thorough reading practicing the combination of obscure characters and rarely used meanings found in Chinese character dictionaries is essential It is anticipated that this book which translates the Classic of Poetry will not be easy for students to read and it will require almost all the skills necessary for reading However if one learns how to read it their understanding of literature will reach a level different from before It is hoped that readers will gain much benefit from reading the Classic of Poetry through this book 305
