Critical Discourses of the Fantastic, 1712-1831 Professor David Sandner, 2013-05-28 Challenging literary histories that locate the emergence of fantastic literature in the Romantic period David Sandner shows that tales of wonder and imagination were extremely popular throughout the eighteenth century Sandner engages contemporary critical definitions and defenses of eighteenth and early nineteenth century fantastic literature demonstrating that a century of debate and experimentation preceded the Romantic s interest in the creative imagination In The Fairy Way of Writing Joseph Addison first defines the literary use of the supernatural in a modern and rational age Other writers like Richard Hurd James Beattie Samuel Johnson James Percy and Walter Scott influence the shape of the fantastic by defining and describing the modern fantastic in relation to a fabulous and primitive past As the genre of the purely imaginary Sandner argues the fantastic functions as a discourse of the sublime imagination albeit a contested discourse that threatens to disrupt any attempt to ground the sublime in the realistic or sympathetic imagination His readings of works by authors such as Ann Radcliffe William Beckford Horace Walpole Mary Shelley Walter Scott and James Hogg not only redefine the antecedents of the fantastic but also offer a convincing account of how and why the fantastic came to be marginalized in the wake of the Enlightenment Walter Scott and the Limits of Language Alison Lumsden, 2010-12-01 Scott's startlingly contemporary approach to theories of language and the creative impact of this on his work are explored in this new study Alison Lumsden examines the linguistic diversity and creative playfulness of Scott's fiction and suggests that an evolving scepticism towards the communicative capacities of language runs throughout his writing Lumsden re-examines this scepticism in relation to Scottish Enlightenment thought and recent developments in theories of the novel Structured chronologically the book covers Scott's output from his early narrative poems until the late and only recently published Reliquiae Trotcosienses

Blind and Blindness in Literature of the Romantic Period Edward Larrissy, 2007-06-19 In the first full length literary historical study of its subject Edward Larrissy examines the philosophical and literary background to representations of blindness and the blind in the Romantic period In detailed studies of literary works he goes on to show how the topic is central to an understanding of British and Irish Romantic literature While he considers the influence of Milton and the Ossian poems as well as of philosophers including Locke Diderot Berkeley and Thomas Reid much of the book is taken up with new readings of writers of the period These include canonical authors such as Blake Wordsworth Scott Byron Keats and Percy and Mary Shelley as well as less well known writers such as Charlotte Brooke and Ann Batten Cristall There is also a chapter on the popular genre of improving tales for children by writers such as Barbara Hofland and Mary Sherwood Larrissy finds that despite the nostalgia for a bardic age of inward vision the chief emphasis in the period is on the compensations of enhanced sensitivity to music and words This compensation becomes associated with the loss and gain involved in the modernity of a post bardic age Representations of blindness and the blind are found to elucidate a tension at the heart of the Romantic period between the desire for immediacy of vision on the one hand and on the other the historical self consciousness which always attends it
