Securing a Place for Reading in Composition Ellen C. Carillo, 2014-10-02 Securing a Place for Reading in Composition addresses the dissonance between the need to prepare students to read not just write complex texts and the lack of recent scholarship on reading writing connections Author Ellen C Carillo argues that including attention to reading practices is crucial for developing more comprehensive literacy pedagogies Students who can read actively and reflectively will be able to work successfully with the range of complex texts they will encounter throughout their post secondary academic careers and beyond Considering the role of reading within composition from both historical and contemporary perspectives Carillo makes recommendations for the productive integration of reading instruction into first year writing courses She details a mindful reading framework wherein instructors help students cultivate a repertoire of approaches upon which they consistently reflect as they apply them to various texts This metacognitive frame allows students to become knowledgeable and deliberate about how they read and gives them the opportunity to develop the skills useful for moving among reading approaches in mindful ways thus preparing them to actively and productively read in courses and contexts outside first year composition Securing a Place for Reading in Composition also explores how the field of composition might begin to effectively address reading including conducting research on reading revising outcome statements and revisiting the core courses in graduate programs It will be of great interest to writing program administrators and other compositionists and their graduate students Illinois Libraries, 1927 Includes proceedings of the Illinois Library Association Crossing

Shattering Minds Anna Ovaska,2023-09-07 This study offers a new perspective on unusual and unsettling experiences that are often interpreted as mental illnesses and on the techniques through which literary representations invite readerly responses and engagement The book examines how four Finnish modernist writers Helvi H m l inen Jorma Korpela Timo K Mukka and Maria Vaara construct experiences of shattering and distress as bodily experiences that are embedded in the social and material world and entangled with social and cultural norms that govern subjectivity gender and sexuality Drawing on narrative theory theories of embodied cognition phenomenology of illness and feminist theory the analyses show how literary works can invite readers to respond emotionally and to reflect on our views of the human mind and its interaction with the world The book sheds light on the fictional portrayals and techniques of representation and on the ethics of narrating and reading about painful experiences It also illuminates the ways the mind body consciousness and mental distress are discussed in Finnish modernist literature and situates the texts in the international modernist tradition

Connecting Reading & Writing in Second Language Writing Instruction Alan Hirvela,2004-08-20 Academic writing often requires students to incorporate material from outside sources like statistics ideas quotations paraphrases into their own written texts a particular obstacle for students who lack strong reading skills In Connecting Reading and Writing in Second Language Instruction Alan Hirvela contends that second language writing students should be considered as readers first and advocates the integration of reading and writing instruction with a survey of theory research and pedagogy in the subject area Although the integrated reading writing model has gained popularity in recent years many teachers have little more than an intuitive sense of the connections between these skills As part of the popular Michigan Series on Teaching Multilingual Writers Connecting Reading and Writing in Second Language Instruction will provide invaluable background knowledge on this issue to ESL teachers in training as well as teachers who are already practicing
