

General Mills (GMI) Global Warehouse Quality Manual

Per GMI standard 14.2 – all warehouses storing GMI owned material that are not physically connected to a make plant, must follow the requirements within this Global Warehouse Manual.

These are the minimum requirements to be followed as defined by General Mills unless applicable laws or regulations have more stringent requirements. General Mills requirements shall supersede local customs or practices.

Created by Debby Erwin 6/1/2018
Updated by Debby Erwin 04/15/2019

Policy 01: Product Regulatory Compliance

Warehouse facility shall have a Regulatory Contacts program. The documented procedures should be reviewed annually and should include the following minimal elements:

- ✓ Person or persons named (by position) to accompany all inspectors.
- ✓ Defined company/facility policy on the use of photographic and recording equipment.
- ✓ Defined company/facility policy regarding records and samples.
- ✓ Training plan to assure personnel stay current on procedures. (individual training should be documented)
- ✓ Procedures for reporting and documenting regulatory contacts.
- ✓ Procedures for developing, documenting, and verifying corrective actions.

The facility shall be in compliance with international, federal, state, and/or local registration and licensing requirements. The facility shall have programs in place to ensure compliance with import/export regulations for the country of manufacture and the country of sale.

Warehouses storing product that will be consumed in the USA need to register with the FDA and then reregister every even numbered year.

Facility shall communicate to GMI whenever a regulatory agency (or international equivalent) contact is made. Regulatory agencies in the United States could include (but not be limited to) FDA, USDA, applicable State Departments of Agriculture, State public health authorities, local public health authorities, State or Federal Department(s) of Labor (OSHA), EPA (or state equivalents). Contact, as defined, could include a telephone call, letter, or an on-site visitation.

The facility shall complete the GMI Regulatory Contact Report and e-mail it to their GMI contact and/or Regulatory.Contact@genmills.com within 24hrs (if there were observations requiring action) or 72hrs (if no observations or no action required). Note: if the warehouse is contracted/owned by a copacker to store GMI owned material (rather than contracted by GMI), then the copacker should be contacted if there is regulatory contact at the warehouse. In turn, the copacker will contact GM if General Mills product is impacted.

If General Mills samples are pulled by a Regulatory person, product should be held pending General Mills quality input.

Policy 02: Product Control Traceability Recall / Withdrawal

Traceability programs at each facility shall be challenged through a traceability test/mock recall at a minimum of once per year. Mock recall shall test one step back from the facility (i.e. origin of inbound material) and one step forward from the facility (i.e. destination of outbound material). All mock recalls shall be documented including:

- Identification of item traced (i.e. ingredient, finished product)
- Time for completion
- % of raw materials recovered
- % of finished product recovered
