Are Malawian Diets Changing? An assessment of nutrient consumption and dietary patterns using household-level evidence from 2010/11 and 2016/17 Gilbert, Rachel, Benson, Todd, Ecker, Olivier, 2019-12-16 This paper provides an updated analysis of the dietary patterns of Malawian households and their consumption of select nutrients calories protein iron vitamin A zinc and folate using data from the third 2010 11 and fourth 2016 17 rounds of the Malawi Integrated Household Survey IHS Changes in food and nutrient consumption patterns between the two survey periods are examined across household wealth categories and across regions Dietary diversity and patterns of food and nutrient consumption are found to differ significantly between rural and urban areas Whereas urban households largely saw slightly increased or stable nutrient consumption between 2010 11 and 2016 17 most households in rural areas saw declines over this period We also document small shifts in the relative amounts of foods consumed over this six year period in both rural and urban households with increased consumption of fish and pulses legumes and nuts and decreases in meat fruit dairy and root and tuber consumption The contribution of animal source foods as a share of total protein consumption remains low at between 10 and 20 percent depending on the region with the overall share of protein from animal source foods falling slightly between the two surveys With regards to adequacy of household diets for meeting nutrient requirements in the absence of nutrient supplementation many individuals will be subject to iron vitamin A and folate inadequacies Of particular concern the poorest households have very low nutrient consumption per person and have diets that rely on only a few foods from a small number of food groups For all six nutrients nationally just over half of the total amount of nutrient consumed came from food that was purchased While we would expect this for urban households even for rural households more than half of all calories and protein consumed came from foods that were purchased For micronutrients consumed by rural households between 40 and 50 percent came from purchased foods While in the past own production of food may have provided most Malawian households with most of the nutrients they consumed this is no longer the case For most Malawian households including in rural communities their food security and dietary nutritional needs now are equally tied to the market as to their own farming if not more so Drawing lessons from the analysis here for improving the food consumption data collected in the IHS surveys more detailed and further disaggregated data would be beneficial particularly to help estimate nutrients derived from fortified and processed foods Additional information on how food is shared within households would also allow for a better understanding of nutrient inadequacies at the individual level Collecting more information on the content of the meals that household members eat away from home would also be helpful in removing some uncertainty in the nutrient consumption estimates made from the data Finally additional information on food gifts received could clarify aspects of household coping strategies the performance of formal social safety nets and food choice

Determinants: The Econeurobiology of Brain Development Raed Z. Mualem, Calixto Machado ,Leon

Morales-Quezada, Shir Shance, 2024-11-25 The econeurobiology of brain development describes the interaction of factors in a child's environment that determine brain plasticity, cognition and learning by enhancing brain connectivity and through gene expression. These factors shape concentration, learning inside and outside the classroom, social interaction, emotional development and behaviour. Although brain development is maximal in the first three years of life, elementary school education is a significant determinant of adult health, employment, prosperity and public health. The goal of this research topic is to examine how childhood education may be optimized for individual and public health and to look more closely at the unique interaction of education and health as determinants of social well-being and the health of societies. Emphasis on six factors that form the econeurobiology of brain development: a nurturing environment, sleep, nutrition, exercise, music and teaching and learning strategies in school and the community that enhance brain connectivity among school-age children.

Impacts of Tropical Landscape Change on Human Diet and Local Food Systems Amy Ickowitz, Jeanine Rhemtulla, Laura Vang Rasmussen, Bronwen Powell, 2021-03-09 Encyclopedia of Food Security and Sustainability, 2018-11-08 The Encyclopedia of Food Security and Sustainability Three Volume Set covers the hottest topics in the science of food sustainability, providing a synopsis of the path society is on to secure food for a growing population. It investigates the focal issue of sustainable food production in relation to the effects of global change on food resources, biodiversity and global food security. This collection of methodological approaches and knowledge derived from expert authors around the world offers the research community, food industry scientists and students with the knowledge to relate to and report on the novel challenges of food production and sustainability. This comprehensive encyclopedia will act as a platform to show how an interdisciplinary approach and closer collaboration between the scientific and industrial communities is necessary to strengthen our existing capacity to generate and share research data. Offers readers a one-stop resource on the topic of food security and sustainability. Contains articles split into sections based on the various dimensions of Food Security and Food Sustainability. Written by academics and practitioners from various fields and regions with a farm-to-fork understanding. Includes concise and accessible chapters providing an authoritative introduction for non-specialists and readers from undergraduate level upwards as well as up-to-date foundational content for those familiar with the field. Annual Activity

Report of HRST Department African Union. Department of Human Resources, Science and Technology, Learning from Global Food and Nutrition Insecurity Rafael Perez-Escamilla, Amos Laar, Susan Vorkoper, 2024-11-06 As access to healthy, nutritious and safe food becomes increasingly unreliable, especially among low-income groups, research on food insecurity is of critical importance both domestically and abroad. Scientists around the world are leading the way in testing innovative public health and policy strategies to address the reasons behind this trend and develop policies and effective interventions and programs. Despite recognising the global impact of food and nutrition insecurity, efforts to address it are often siloed and fractured. Sharing research strategies and proven methods among researchers worldwide can help identify common ground and lessons learned for the adaptation and implementation of evidence informed food and nutrition security interventions

Conservation Agriculture in Africa Saidi Mkomwa, Amir H. Kassam, 2022-01-11 Tillage agriculture has led to widespread soil and ecosystem degradation globally and more particularly in the developing regions This is especially so in Africa where traditional agricultural practices have become unsustainable due to severe exploitation of natural resources with negative impacts on the environment and food system In addition agricultural land use in Africa today faces major challenges including increased costs climate change and a need to transform to more sustainable production intensification systems Conservation Agriculture has emerged as a major alternative sustainable climate smart agriculture approach in Africa and has spread to many African countries in the past decade as more development and research including in sustainable mechanization has enabled its extension and uptake It is key to transforming Africa s agriculture and food system given its ability to restore soil health biodiversity and productivity of millions of smallholder farms as well as larger scale farms This book is aimed at all agricultural stakeholders in the public private and civil sectors in Africa engaged in supporting the transformation of conventional tillage agriculture to Conservation Agriculture The book will be of interest to researchers academics students development stakeholders public and private sector investors and policy makers as well as institutional libraries across the world
