It can serve as a quick in the clinic reference between patients or be used to steer curricular efforts in medical training programs particularly tailored to internal medicine, family medicine, gynecology, nursing, and advanced practice provider programs. Organized to cover essential topics in women's health and gender-based care, this text is divided into eight sections: Foundations of Women's Health and Gender-Based Medicine; Gynecologic Health and Disease; Breast Health and Disease; Common Medical Conditions; Chronic Pain Disorders; Mental Health and Trauma; Care of Selected Populations; care of female veterans and gender-diverse patients; and Obstetric Medicine. Using the Maintenance of Certification (MOC) and American Board of Internal Medicine blueprints for examination development, authors provide evidence-based reviews with several challenge questions and annotated answers at the end of each chapter. The epidemiology, pathophysiology, evaluation, diagnosis, treatment, and prognosis of all disease processes are detailed in each chapter. Learning objectives, summary points, certain exam techniques, clinical pearls, diagrams, and images are added to enhance reader's engagement and understanding of the material. Cervical Cancer Ruth Dunleavy, 2008-11-20. This is a comprehensive guide to cervical cancer for nurses. It is a practically based text for clinical nurses who wish to consolidate and update their knowledge of cervical cancer. It is concise, containing comprehensive information for general practice together with useful references to facilitate more in-depth study. Thus it provides an invaluable resource for both the registered nurse with a general interest in cervical cancer and for the nurse specialist working in primary health, gynaecology, oncology, and palliative care. As well as containing the essential chapters about the pathophysiology and treatment of cervical abnormalities and cervical cancer, the book also addresses specific nursing issues such as sexuality, fertility, and symptom control. Moreover, it examines the bigger global picture of the disease. Full appreciation of global impact of cervical cancer on women involves an appreciation of the social, political, and public health aspects of the disease, not only in the developed world but also in developing countries.

FDA Consumer, 1989 The Biopolitics of Breast Cancer Maren Klawiter, 2008. For nearly forty years, feminists and patient activists have argued that medicine is a deeply individualizing and depoliticizing institution. According to this view, medical practices are incidental to people's transformation from patients to patient activists. The Biopolitics of Breast Cancer turns this understanding upside down. Maren Klawiter analyzes the evolution of the breast cancer movement to show the broad social impact of how diseases come to be medically managed and publicly administered. Examining surgical procedures, adjuvant therapies early detection campaigns and the rise in discourses of risk Klawiter demonstrates that these practices created a change in the social relations if not the mortality rate of breast cancer that initially inhibited but later enabled collective action Her research focuses on the emergence and development of new forms of activism that range from grassroots patient empowerment to environmental activism and corporate funded breast cancer awareness The Biopolitics of Breast Cancer opens a window onto a larger set of changes currently transforming medically advanced societies and ultimately challenges our understanding of the origins politics and future of the breast cancer movement Maren Klawiter holds a PhD in sociology from the University of California Berkeley She is currently pursuing a law degree at Yale University Comprehensive
