Third Series Library of Congress. Copyright Office, 1971 Agrarian Radicalism in China, 1968-1981 David Zweig, 1989 During and after the Cultural Revolution radical leaders in the Chinese Communist Party tried to mobilize rural society for socioeconomic and political changes and move rural China to even higher stages of collectivism David Zweig argues that because advocates of agrarian radicalism formed a minority group within China's central leadership they acted in opposition to the dominant moderate forces and resorted to alternative strategies to mobilize support for their unofficial policies The limited institutionalization of the system allowed the radicals to promote their principles through policy winds speeches generated by newspaper articles networks of political allies and organized visits they also linked their policies to ongoing political and economic campaigns In spite of this radical ideology and frequent upheavals in the countryside Zweig finds that Chinese peasants had no ideological affinity for Mao's theory of the continuing revolution and reacted to each policy change on the basis of how it affected their personal family or collective interests Despite intense propaganda cadres adjusted the impact of these radical policies so that the peasants' conservative mindset entrepreneurial spirit and desire to improve their own lot remained intact Zweig examines the local realities of the radicals' program by describing the results of specific policies he discriminates among the responses of officials at different bureaucratic levels peasants of varying income levels and family structures and villages with specific geographic and socioeconomic characteristics He draws on his own field research in Chinese villages and interviews with Chinese college students and their friends who had lived in the countryside and emigrants in Hong Kong who had lived and worked in rural China Monthly Catalog of United States Government Publications, Cumulative Index United States. Superintendent of Documents, 1970 American Machinist, 1901 Managing Hedge Fund Risk and Financing David P. Belmont, 2011-08-17 The ultimate guide to dealing with hedge fund risk in a post Great Recession world Hedge funds have been faced with a variety of new challenges as a result of the ongoing financial crisis The simultaneous collapse of major financial institutions that were their trading counterparties and service providers fundamental and systemic increases in market volatility and illiquidity and unrelenting demands from investors to redeem their hedge fund investments have conspired to make the climate for hedge funds extremely uncomfortable As a result many funds have failed or been forced to close due to poor performance Managing Hedge Fund Risk and Financing Adapting to a New Era brings together the many lessons learned from the recent crisis Advising hedge fund managers and CFOs on how to manage the risk of their investment strategies and structure relationships to best insulate their firms and investors from the failures of financial counterparties the book looks in detail at the various methodologies for managing hedge fund market credit and operational risks depending on the hedge fund's investment strategy Also covering best practice ISDA Prime Brokerage Fee and Margin

Lock Up and including tips for Committed Facility lending contracts the book includes everything you need to know to learn from the events of the past to inform your future hedge fund dealings Shows how to manage hedge fund risk through the application of financial risk modelling and measurement techniques as well as the structuring of financial relationships with investors regulators creditors and trading counterparties Written by a global finance expert David Belmont who worked closely with hedge fund clients during the crisis and experienced first hand what works Explains how to profit from the financial crisis In the wake of the Financial Crisis there have been calls for more stringent management of hedge fund risk and this timely book offers comprehensive guidelines for CFOs looking to ensure world class levels of corporate governance
