New Hampshire Forest Market Report University of New Hampshire. Agricultural Extension Service, K.E. Barraclough, 1941 New Hampshire's Stumpage and Roadside Prices Susan B. Remington, Donald F. Dennis, 1986 New Hampshire Forest Market Report, Fall 1937 University of New Hampshire. Agricultural Extension Service, K. E. Barraclough, 1937 New Hampshire Forest Market Report - Fall 1936 University of New Hampshire. Agricultural Extension Service, K.E. Barraclough, 1936 The Demand and Price Situation for Forest Products, 1973-74 Robert Bridger Phelps, Dwight Hair, 1974 This report presents information on trends in production trade consumption and prices of forest products in the United States Although national trends are dealt with for the most part some material is given for regions and States The 1972 1973 and 1974 statistics in this report are based on information available in early 1974 The Demand and Price Situation for Forest Products, 1975 Economics of Forestry, 1965 This bibliography lists publications and postgraduate theses in the field of forestry economics in the United States and Canada in 1960 1961 and 1962

Northeastern Regional Timber Stumpage Prices, 1961-91 Paul E. Sendak, 1994 State and regional weighted averages were calculated for timber stumpage prices for the northeastern region The weighting factor was the timber volume harvested The regional price series for hardwood sawtimber softwood sawtimber hardwood pulpwood and softwood pulpwood are reported for the 31 year period 1961 to 1991 Hardwood sawtimber prices increased at the average annual rate of 10.3 percent nominal softwood sawtimber at 6.4 percent hardwood pulpwood at 6.5 percent and softwood pulpwood at 5.3 percent Inflation as measured by the All commodity Producer Price Index averaged 5.7 percent per year over the 31 year period West Virginia Yellow-poplar Lumber Defect Database Lawrence E. Osborn, Charles J. Gatchell, Curt Charles Hassler, 1992 S2 In West Virginia yellow poplar Liriodendron tulipifera is abundant and is a prime candidate for increased utilization in a variety of manufacturing industries Computer simulations are a cost effective tool for estimating potential cutting yields from lumber They can be used to promote increased use of yellow poplar in the furniture cabinet and architectural woodworking industries and may also lead to increased utilization of the lower grades of lumber This paper describes the data collection methods and the format of the new West Virginia yellow poplar lumber defect database that was developed for use with computer simulation programs The database contains descriptions of 627 boards totaling approximately 3 800 board feet collected in West Virginia for grades FAS FASIF No 1 Common No 2A Common and No 2B Common S3 Forest Communities, Community Forests Jonathan Kusel, 2003-08-04 Forest Communities Community Forests is a collection of stories about twelve communities in the United States and their efforts to protect and restore their community forests It explores the struggles and opportunities faced by people as they work to invest in natural capital reverse decades of poor forest practices tackle policy gridlock and address community as well as ecological health The case studies are organized by the dominant themes in American community forestry today with the basic premise that healthy ecosystems depend on healthy communities and vice versa Unlike most studies of contemporary forestry Forest Communities Community Forests focuses on community well being and more generally community concerns While some recent studies have examined the environmental benefits of place based resource management or collaborative processes few have looked at community needs and concerns beyond the question of how to entice locals to comply with new forestry It is our hope that these case studies will convey the importance of community based forestry and contribute to the understanding and development and ultimately the success of new community based initiatives in the U S Miscellaneous Publication Alice H. Ulrich,1981 Forestry Economics John E. Wagner,2023-12-22 Forestry Economics introduces students and practitioners to the economics of managing forests and forest enterprises The book adopts the approach of managerial economics textbooks and applies this to the unique problems and production processes faced by managers of forests and forest enterprises What many future forest and natural resource managers need is to understand what economic information is and how to use it to make better business and management decisions John E Wagner draws on his 30 years of experience teaching and working in the field of forest resource economics to present students with an accessible understanding of the unique production processes and problems faced by forest and other natural resource managers The second edition has been updated to include Expanded discussion of compounding discounting and capital budgeting as well as an expanded discussion of when to replace a capital asset that has i costs but no direct revenue stream such as a machine ii costs and a direct annual revenue stream such as a solar array or iii costs and a periodic revenue stream illustrated by the forest rotation problem New practical examples to provide students with applications of the concepts being discussed in the text most notably on New Zealand and a Radiata Pine Pinus radiata Plantation A brand new chapter that develops business plans for for profit businesses to illustrate how a business plan is derived from the economic information contained within the Architectural Plan for Profit and how it can be used to make business decisions about continuing to operate a business or to start a new business This textbook is an invaluable source of clear and accessible information on forestry economics and management not only for economics students but also for students of other disciplines and those already working in forestry and natural resources The Demand and Price Situation for Forest Products, 1966 Dwight Hair,1967 General Technical Report WO. ,1975 The Demand and Price Situation for Forest Products, 1969-70 Dwight Hair,Alice H.
