Linstone, Harold Quinton Distinguished Professor of Business Policy and Director Ian I. Mitroff, Ian I. Mitroff, 1994-01-01 The population and technology explosions are shrinking the world to a system in which everything is interactive forcing us to transcend traditional modes of thinking In this book the authors set forth the concept of multiple perspectives technical organizational and personal They begin the book with a multiple perspective examination of the Exxon Valdez oil spill in Alaska a case that foreshadows the intensifying problem of managing hazardous technology in the coming decades They then apply this approach on a much larger scale to the United States in the evolving global setting Included in the discussion are issues such as the balance between short term and long term concerns and between individual and societal responsibilities The interdependence and inseparability of the three perspectives is reflected in the focus on technological superiority organizational rethinking and imaginative personal leadership This book will help managers and students in business engineering science and policymaking break away from exclusive concern with the technical perspective and thus help prepare them for the challenges of a new era

How to Live a Low-Carbon Life Christopher Goodall,2012-05-04 Climate change is the greatest challenge facing humanity drastic reduction of carbon emissions is vital if we are to avoid a catastrophe that devastates large parts of the world Governments and businesses have been slow to act and individuals now need to take the lead The Earth can absorb no more than 3 tonnes of carbon dioxide emissions each year for every person on the planet if we are to keep temperature and rainfall change within tolerable limits Yet from cars and holiday flights to household appliances and the food on our plates Western consumer lifestyles leave each of us responsible for over 12 tonnes of carbon dioxide a year four times what the Earth can handle Individual action is essential if we want to avoid climate chaos How to Live a Low Carbon Life shows how easy it is to take responsibility providing the first comprehensive one stop reference guide to calculating your CO2 emissions and reducing them to a sustainable 3 tonnes a year
