A History of Western Astrology Volume II Nicholas Campion, 2009-04-16 Astrology is a major feature of contemporary popular culture. Recent research indicates that 99% of adults in the modern west know their birth sign. In the modern west astrology thrives as part of our culture despite being a pre-Christian, pre-scientific world view. Medieval and Renaissance Europe marked the high water mark for astrology. It was a subject of high theological speculation, was used to advise kings and popes and to arrange any activity from the beginning of battles to the most auspicious time to have one's hair cut. Nicholas Campion examines the foundation of modern astrology in the medieval and Renaissance worlds. Spanning the period between the collapse of classical astrology in the fifth century and the rise of popular astrology on the web in the twentieth century, Campion challenges the historical convention that astrology flourished only between the twelfth and seventeenth centuries. Concluding with a discussion of astrology's popularity and appeal in the twenty-first century, Campion asks whether it should be seen as an integral part of modernity or as an element of the post-modern world.

The Dawn of Astrology: The medieval and modern worlds Nicholas Campion, 2008 The Bookseller, 1913 The Art and Science of Making the New Man in Early 20th-Century Russia Yvonne Howell, Nikolai Kremmentsov, 2021-12-02 The idea that morally, mentally and physically superior new men might replace the currently existing mankind has periodically seized the imagination of intellectuals, leaders and reformers throughout history. This volume offers a multidisciplinary investigation into how the new man was made in Russia and the early Soviet Union in the first third of the 20th century. The traditional narrative of the Soviet new man as a creature forged by propaganda is challenged by the strikingly new and varied case studies presented here. The book focuses on the interplay between the rapidly developing experimental life sciences such as biology, medicine and psychology and countless cultural products ranging from film and fiction, dolls and museum exhibits to pedagogical projects, sculptures and exemplary agricultural fairs. With contributions from scholars based in the United States, Canada, the UK, Germany and Russia, the picture that emerges is emphatically more complex, contradictory and suggestive of strong parallels with other new man visions in Europe and elsewhere. In contrast to previous interpretations that focused largely on the apparent disconnect between utopian new man rhetoric and the harsh realities of everyday life in the Soviet Union, this volume brings to light the surprising historical trajectories of new man visions, their often obscure origins, acclaimed and forgotten champions, unexpected and complicated results and mutual interrelations. In short, the volume is a timely examination of a recurring theme in modern history when dramatic advancements in science and technology conjoin with anxieties about the future to fuel dreams of a new and improved mankind. Bookseller and the Stationery Trades' Journal, 1913 From Rabbit Ears to the Rabbit Hole Kathleen Collins, 2021-03-02 For the past several years, critics have been describing the present era as both the end of television and one of peak TV, referring to the unprecedented quality and volume and the waning of old technologies, formats and habits. Television's projections and reflections have significantly contributed to who we are individually and culturally From Rabbit Ears to the Rabbit Hole A Life with Television reveals the reflections of a TV scholar and fan analyzing how her life as a consumer of television has intersected with the cultural and technological evolution of the medium itself In a narrative bridging television studies memoir and comic literary nonfiction Kathleen Collins takes readers alongside her from the 1960s through to the present reminiscing and commiserating about some of what has transpired over the last five decades in the US in media culture and in what constitutes a shared cultural history In a personal critical and entertaining meditation on her relationship with TV as avid consumer and critic she considers the concept and institution of TV as well as reminiscing about beloved derided or completely forgotten content She describes the shifting role of TV in her life in a progression that is far from unique but rather representative of a largely collective experience It affords a parallel coming of age that of the author and her coprotagonist television By turns playful and serious wry and poignant it is a testament to the profound and positive effect TV can have on a life and by extrapolation on the culture
