Dramatic Interactions in

Education Susan Davis, Beth Ferholt, Hannah Grainger Clemson, Satu-Mari Jansson, Ana Marjanovic-Shane, 2015-01-15
Dramatic Interactions in Education draws together contemporary sociocultural research across drama and educational contents to draw out implications for researchers and practitioners both within and outside the field Drama is a field for which human interactions experience emotional expression and attitude are central with those in non arts fields discovering that understandings emerging from drama education can provide models and means for examining the affective and relational domains which are essential for understanding learning processes In addition to this those in the realm of drama education and applied theatre are realising that sociocultural and historical cultural approaches can usefully inform their research and practice Leading international theorists and researchers from across the UK Europe USA and Australia combine theoretical discussions research methodologies accounts of research and applications in classroom and learning contexts as they explore concepts from Vygotsky s foundational work and interrogate key concepts such as perezhivanie or the emotional lived experience development of self zone of proximal development

Pathos in Late-Medieval Religious Drama and Art Gabriella Mazzon, 2018-05-23 Pathos as Communicative Strategy in Late Medieval Religious Drama and Art explores the strategies employed to trigger emotional responses in late medieval dramatic texts from several Western European traditions and juxtaposes these texts with artistic productions from the same areas with an emphasis on Britain The aim is to unravel the mechanisms through which pathos was produced and employed mainly through the representation of pain and suffering with mainly religious but also political aims The novelty of the book resides in its specific linguistic perspective which highlights the recurrent use of words structures and dialogic patterns in drama to reinforce messages on the salvific value of suffering in synergy with visual messages produced in the same cultural milieu

Monarchy, Political Culture, and Drama in Seventeenth-Century Madrid Jodi Campbell, 2016-04-15 In early modern Spain theater reached the height of its popularity during the same decades in which Spanish monarchs were striving to consolidate their power Jodi Campbell uses the dramatic production of seventeenth century Madrid to understand how ordinary Spaniards perceived the political developments of this period Through a study of thirty three plays by four of the most popular playwrights of Madrid Pedro Caldern de la Barca Francisco de Rojas Zorrilla Juan de Matos Fragoso and Juan Bautista Diamante Campbell analyzes portrayals of kingship during what is traditionally considered to be the age of absolutism and highlights the differences between the image of kingship cultivated by the monarchy and that presented on Spanish stages A surprising number of plays performed and published in Madrid in the seventeenth century Campbell shows featured themes about kingship debates over the qualities that make a good king tests of a king s abilities and stories about the conflicts that could arise between the personal interests of a king and the best interest of his subjects Rather than supporting the absolutist and centralizing policies of the monarchy popular theater is shown here to favor the idea of reciprocal obligations between subjects and monarch This study contributes new evidence to the trend of recent scholarship that revises our views of early modern Spanish absolutism arguing for the significance of the perspectives of ordinary people to the realm of politics
