The computer was invented by Charles Babbage. It is an electronic device which can store, organize and find information. Since its invention, has undergone evolutions regarding its shape, capability of storing data and so on. It can do big calculations in seconds and can control other machines as well. Computers are used in offices, hospitals, schools, colleges, factories, airports, everywhere. The students get the scope to gather all kinds of information with just one click of the mouse. But computers have some bad impacts as well. People become unsocial and lethargic. Children get addicted to video games. Computer should be used wisely to let the wonderful invention be a boon, and not a bane.
