16. Describe the process of oogenesis. The female gametogenesis process involves several steps: 1. Oogenesis begins with a primary oocyte, which is a large cell containing a nucleus. 2. The primary oocyte undergoes meiosis I, which results in the formation of a secondary oocyte and a first polar body. 3. The secondary oocyte undergoes meiosis II, which results in the formation of a large oocyte and a second polar body. 4. The first polar body also undergoes meiosis II, which results in the formation of a second polar body and a third polar body. 5. The final products of oogenesis are one large oocyte and three small polar bodies.
17. How does meiosis ensure genetic diversity in the daughter cells? Meiosis ensures genetic diversity in the daughter cells through several mechanisms: 1. Independent assortment: The chromosomes of the parent cell are randomly distributed to the daughter cells. 2. Crossing over: The chromosomes of the parent cell exchange genetic material, resulting in new combinations of genes. 3. Random fertilization: The daughter cells are randomly fertilized by sperm cells, resulting in a unique genetic combination for each offspring.
