Revision Of Courses Kenya Universities:

Higher Education and Sustainable Development Stephen Gough, William Scott, 2008-01-08 The Key Issues in Higher Education series aims to raise both awareness and the standards of debate on the fundamental issues that lie at the very heart of higher education and intends to assist national and international debate Higher Education and Sustainable Development examines whether it is actually possible to mandate plan monitor and evaluate the higher education sector's route to the production of educated innovative independent self determining critical individuals while at the same time achieving a range of wider policy goals on the side This book examines this question in the context of a particular international policy issue sustainable development which is now seen across the globe as a necessary and urgent response to a range of social and environmental issues that threaten the integrity of the biosphere and human well being The book concludes that the idea of sustainable development holds both opportunities and dangers for universities as they pursue their proper role in a free society Illustrated by seven in depth case studies this book considers the complex inter relationships of a free society and sustainable development in the context of higher education and aims to make recommendations for realistic future development It is essential reading for the international higher education research community policy makers university managers students and non Governmental organizations in the development environment and social policy sectors

The African Virtual University Magdalen N. Juma, 2001 One of the most impressive innovations to have emerged as a means of helping to deal with crisis in higher education in Africa is the concept of a virtual university This case study relates to the pilot phase of the African Virtual University at Kenyatta University in Kenya The Status of Student Involvement in University Governance in Kenya Mulinge, Munyae M., Arasa, Josephine N., 2017-05-05 This book examines the concept of the democratization of governance in universities in Kenya with particular emphasis on students involvement in governance processes and decision making Data were collected from members of the student community utilizing a structured self administered questionnaire and from purposively selected key informants and focus group discussants drawn from Kenyatta University representing the public sector and the United States International University representing the private sector The guiding argument for the study was that shared governance one of the principles of good governance is critical in enabling the universities to deliver their visions and the missions effectively The results revealed that while in principle Kenyan universities have embraced democratic governance in which all stakeholders including students have a role to play in practice they continue to violate the core principles of good governance particularly shared governance Specifically students who are major stakeholders in university education are largely excluded from significant structures of governance thereby limiting their influence and participation Although their representation is mainly provided via student self governance organs unions associations and or councils their effectiveness is undermined considerably by the lack of trust and confidence of the student body and the unending manipulation by top university administrators and external political actors Student active involvement in decision making is mainly confined to lower levels such as the school faculty and departmental programme. The authors call for a paradigm shift in the involvement of students in the governance of universities in ways that discourage the current culture of tokenism and political correctness that characterizes public and private universities in Kenya.
