Why Did I Get a B? Shannon Reed, 2021-06 Shannon Reed didn't want to be a teacher but now there's nothing she would rather be. In essays full of wit and insight she relates the highs and lows of a job located at the intersection of youth and wisdom rolling her eyes at ineffectual administrators weeping with her students as they experience personal tragedies explaining the unwritten rules of the faculty lounge and presenting the parent teacher conference from the other side of the tiny table. Why Did I Get a B is full of as much humor and heart as the job itself. Gerard Manley Hopkins's Poetics of Anxiety and Transience Mirko Starčević, 2023-10-25 This book analyses the themes of anxiety and transience in the poetical thought of Gerard Manley Hopkins a prominent 19th century poet. The book argues that despite Hopkins's strong religious beliefs his artistic vision and quest for an original aesthetic were the foremost concerns in his poetry. The author examines Hopkins's early interest in transience which he later developed through the influence of the philosopher Duns Scotus and the aesthetic critic Walter Pater. In the second half of the book the author employs Martin Heidegger's philosophy to deepen our understanding of Hopkins's poetics of anxiety and transience. He illuminates how these themes shaped Hopkins's poetic voice revealing his affinity with Romanticism and his belief that transience and anxiety enhance rather than hinder the creative process. The book provides a fresh perspective on Hopkins's work challenging the prevailing views that downplay the importance of these themes. While the book is primarily a contribution to literary scholarship it may also appeal to readers interested in the intersection of literature philosophy and art.

America's Obsessives Joshua Kendall, 2025-05-01 When most of us think of Charles Lindbergh we picture a dashing twenty five year old aviator stepping out of the Spirit of St Louis after completing his solo flight across the Atlantic. What we don't see is the awkward high school student who preferred ogling new gadgets at the hardware store to watching girls walk by in their summer dresses. Sure Lindbergh's unique mindset invented the pre flight checklist but his obsession with order also led him to demand that his wife and three German mistresses account for all their household expenditures in detailed ledgers. Lucky Lindy is just one of several American icons whom Joshua Kendall puts on the psychologist's couch in America's Obsessives. In this fascinating look at the arc of American history through the lens of compulsive behavior he shows how some of our nation's greatest achievements from the Declaration of Independence to the invention of the iPhone have roots in the disappointments and frustrations of early childhood. Starting with the obsessive natures of some of Silicon Valley's titans including Steve Jobs Kendall moves on to profile seven iconic figures such as founding father Thomas Jefferson licentious librarian Melvil Dewey condiment kingpin H J Heinz slugger Ted Williams and Estee Lauder. This last personality was so obsessed with touching other women's faces that she transformed her compulsion into a multibillion dollar cosmetics corporation. Entertaining and instructive Kendall offers up a few scoops along the way. Little do most Americans know that

Charles Lindbergh under the alias Clark Kent sired seven children with his three German wives As Lindbergh's daughter Reeve told Kendall Now I know why he was gone so much I also understand why he was delighted when I was learning German
