

The Lighthouse

by Marjorie Wilson

Illustration by Norman Rogers

Burning upon some hidden shore
Across the sea one night
("A little reef," the Captain said),
We saw a shining light.

He said there was a lighthouse there
Where, lonely in the sea,
Men lived to guard that moving light,
And trim the lamp for me.

For me, for him, for every ship
That passes by that way.
I thought it must be strange and quiet
To be there every day.

They have no shops, no fields, no streets;
No whispering sound of trees,
But always shouting at their feet
The great voice of the seas.

And when we sleep at night they wake,
And over every wave
They send that straight strong arm of light
Stretched like a rope to save.

Kenneth L. Feder, 2023-08-08 Deep in the woods of Barkhamsted Connecticut archaeologist Kenneth Feder found a series of irregular cellar holes That discovery led to the archaeological and genealogical investigation into what had become the legend of Barkhamsted Lighthouse The long told story as it appeared in local newspaper articles a school play and even a book length poem focused on Molly Barber a white woman born in central Connecticut in the middle of the eighteenth century Molly the legend goes abandoned her family her friends and her privilege to marry the man she loved James Chaugham a Narragansett Indian from Block Island in Long Island Sound Molly and James ultimately had several children and their growing community became a magnet for other outcasts including Native Americans as well as people of African and European descent Some of these newcomers married into the family and together created a community in their little village As a tale of rebellion race resistance and resilience the legend called out for investigation The site was excavated intermittently between 1986 and 2009 and Feder also started a genealogical investigation of James and Molly and their descendants After meeting with Raymond Ellis a seventh generation descendant of the founding couple Feder recognized that this was more than just a historical mystery to solve it was also a chance to connect archaeology of historic places with the present day relatives of those who once lived there Tenth International Symposium Monitoring of
