Siam And The West 1517:

Siam & the West, 1500-1700 Dirk Van der Cruysse, 2002-05-15 Ambassadors from Versailles in wigs and lace mounted on elephants crossing rice fields Siamese mandarins prostrate before the throne of Louis XIV a Greek adventurer a scheming French Jesuit these are just a few of the colourful characters that play a role in the early history of relations between Siam and the West In a lively and engaging style Professor Dirk Van der Cruysse traces the history of European Siamese relations from the arrival of the Portuguese around the beginning of the sixteenth century followed by the Dutch the British and the French Explorers merchants missionaries and ambassadors came and went across the oceans sometimes producing vivid accounts of lengthy voyages lavish courts and strange customs In these descriptions and anecdotes we observe the startling juxtaposition of fundamentally different worldviews arising from two distinct religious milieux Van der Cruysse expertly weaves together material from journals memoirs and other archival documents quoting from them extensively to construct a compelling historical account of a fascinating relationship Originally published as Louis XIV et le Siam Fayard 1991 this English version has been ably translated by Michael Smithies author of numerous books and articles on the French involvement in Siam during the seventeenth century

Opium and the Limits of Empire David Anthony Bello, 2020-03-17

The British opium trade along China's seacoast has come to symbolize China's century long descent into political and social chaos In the standard historical narrative opium is the primary medium through which China encountered the economic social and political institutions of the West Opium however was not a Sino British problem confined to southeastern China It was rather an empire wide crisis and its spread among an ethnically diverse populace created regionally and culturally distinct problems of control for the Qing state This book examines the crisis from the perspective of Qing prohibition efforts The author argues that opium prohibition and not the opium wars was genuinely imperial in scale and is hence much more representative of the actual drug problem faced by Qing administrators. The study of prohibition also permits a more comprehensive and accurate observation of the economics and criminology of opium. The Qing drug traffic involved the domestic production, distribution and consumption of opium. A balanced examination of the opium market and state anti drug policy in terms of prohibition reveals the importance of the empire's landlocked western frontier regions which were the domestic production centers in what has previously been considered an essentially coastal problem. Western Canner and Packer, 1925 Annual Departmental Reports of the Straits Settlements for the Year ... Straits Settlements, 1907 Europe and the Far East Sir Robert Kennaway Douglas, 1912 Penang Chinese Commerce in the 19th Century Wong Yee Tuan, 2016-04-29. The story of Penang would be incomplete without the Big Five Hokkien families: the Khoo, the Cheah, the Yeoh, the Lim and the Tan. It was the Big Five who played a preponderant role not only in transforming Penang into a regional entrepot and a business and financial base but also in reconfiguring maritime trading patterns and the business orientation of the region in the nineteenth century. Departing from the colonial vantage point, this book examines a web of transnational hybrid and fluid networks of the Big Five comprising of family relationship, sworn brotherhood, political alliance and business partnerships which linked Penang and its surrounding states: western Malay states, southwestern Siam, southern Burma and the north and eastern coasts of Sumatra together to form one economically unified geographical region having inextricable links to China and India. With these intertwining networks, the Big Five succeeded in establishing their dominance in all the major enterprises: trade, shipping, cash crop, planting, tin mining, opium revenue farms which constituted the linchpin of Penang's and its region's economy. By disentangling and dissecting this intricate web of networks, this book reveals the rise and decline of the Hokkien mercantile families' nearly century long economic ascendancy in Penang and its region. Wong Yee Tuan's study of the five clans of Penang represents a major breakthrough in the study of the Malayan Chinese. He documents an extremely important aspect of the nineteenth century Asian diaspora: exposing the intricate links between families, businesses, secret societies, revenue farms and public life of some of the key groups of Chinese in Penang and northern Malaya. The book weaves together the various strands of overseas Chinese life not only in Malaya but also in the Netherlands Indies, Siam and China. Most importantly, it shows the process by which the Chinese leaders gained political, economic and social power as well as the way by which these powers were lost. e Carl A. Trocki, Emeritus Professor, Asian Studies, Queensland University of Technology, Australia. This volume can be situated within a growing historiographical current whereby regional studies of connections, networks and interactions are gradually transcending national histories. Incorporating commercial, ethnic and social elements, the history presented can be concurrently seen as a business case study, a sociological exploration, a political economy treatise and an inquiry into Hokkien networking. Wong Yee Tuan is to be congratulated on this signal study in how local, national and broader regional histories can be integrated. e Geoffrey Wade, ANU College of Asia and the Pacific, Australian

National University By aligning family socio political and business interests the leading Penang Hokkien clans centralized their home port as a hub of regional commercial networks thus successfully extending the trading colonies of Chinese diaspora westward to the edge of the Indian Ocean Wong has fastidiously researched and compellingly proven this with a clear eye for relevant cross cultural collaborations with indigenous and international actors The important legacy of the Big Five clanhouses is now firmly embedded in the George Town World Heritage Site inciting further inquiry into the cultural formation of collective entrepreneurship in Southeast Asia e Khoo Salma Nasution Heritage Advocate and Local Historian Penang
