Managing Health Sciences Libraries in a Time of Change Claire B. Joseph, Priscilla L. Stephenson, 2024-01-26 Selected as a 2025 Doody s Core Title In Managing Health Sciences Libraries in a Time of Change experienced leaders of the medical library community present insights into the current trends and issues faced by health sciences librarians and offer practical guidelines and management skills needed to create a culture of excellence The Medical Library Association points out that Management skills and a leader s abilities affect the culture and performance of coworkers and the effectiveness of an institution The last decades have resulted in a sea change for health sciences library leadership and management In a short period of time medical libraries have transformed from collections of print books and journals to databases of digital resources accessible from any desktop. Library services no longer must be provided face to face but the need for virtual library services has grown in complexity and now demands a greater knowledge of technology and informatics. Reference service, instruction, cataloging and collection development all remain as key library tasks but they have been transformed in this digital environment. This book explores what it means to be a manager of health sciences libraries today. Chapters focus on current trends in health science library leadership, managing change, staffing issues, managing for diversity, equity and inclusion, mentoring, accreditation and evaluation, leadership skills and a discussion of the differences between the concepts of leadership and management.

School Libraries in a Time of Change Kathleen W. Craver, 2019-08-01 By becoming practical futurists, school librarians can help their libraries not only to survive sweeping changes in education but to thrive. This book shows how to spot technological trends and use them to your library's advantage. During this time of rapid modernization of technology and educational reform, this book is a must read for school librarians tasked with ensuring their libraries meet evolving standards. This title provides the research and organizational techniques and skills they need to gain seats at the table of the three power committees: technology, curricula and strategic planning. School librarians need to collect and publicize national and local school based evidence that shows the positive correlations between school librarians and student achievement. Craver notes correlative sources and provides ideas to employ them to ensure that school librarians remain indispensable. In addition, acquiring technological skills and becoming expert at their application are paramount for librarians. Even more important is the need for librarians to assume sole responsibility for designing and integrating information literacy and critical thinking skills throughout the curriculum. Craver analyzes studies that show students' inability to discern fact from fiction, ads from news and information bias in electronic information sources and recommends six actions that school librarians take to ensure that they become active participants in their future rather than its victims.

International Students and Academic Libraries Pamela A. Jackson, Patrick Sullivan, 2011 The case studies describe projects that support the success of international students studying at academic institutions and provide examples of strategies for librarians to encourage library use among international students and increase international student success.

Peer-Assisted Learning in Academic Libraries Erin Rinto, John Watts, Rosan Mitola, 2017-07-05 Written specifically for academic librarians and library administrators, this book identifies the myriad benefits of peer assisted learning, exploring how the implementation of peer assisted learning benefits information literacy instruction, cocurricular outreach and reference services. In this era of accountability and stretched budgets in higher education, librarians need to make instructional programming both highly effective and sustainable. Peer assisted learning is a methodology that has long been accepted in teaching but is relatively new as applied to academic library instruction, outreach and reference. This book brings together the most innovative applications of peer assisted learning in these contexts, explaining specific ways to apply peer assisted learning in a variety of academic library settings for
