The Tragic Tale of The Lost Pumpkin

Pumpkin Hollow was usually a quiet, peaceful place. All of the pumpkins were happy and very friendly to each other. They loved nothing more than to take pictures with the children and families that came to visit.

Until, that is, the disturbances started to happen. They were small at first. A kid or two would talk about bringing one home. A parent would point to a pumpkin and talk about how good it would look in the pot. As Halloween approached the talk grew scarier. The scary rumors of carving flooded the patch.

The night before Halloween was strangely quiet. The moon had an eerie glow. They all knew they were going to become Jack-o-lanterns tomorrow night.

cousin No Child Left Behind NCLB We knew our work would be bounded by the time available in a one semester class and by resource constraints We did exploratory inquiry supported by literature reviews reports on rigorous research studies and in one case an exploratory case study The policies we chose to explore such as EFA and NCLB offered us the opportunity to examine current reform tendencies that are intended to provide access to quality education for all children the preparation of teachers to support diverse populations the organization of schools to accommodate these children in response to vague policy mandates and power issues affecting the different constituencies and stakeholders The effects of these and other policies were difficult to track because research is scant and decisions are frequently made based on ideology or political persuasion Our purpose was to explore the critical issues that originated such policies and to search for documented evidence regarding policy implementation and effectiveness We investigated the factors that seemed to interfere with successful implementation from conceptual theoretical and methodological perspectives In this class we learned that there are not ready set frameworks for policy analysis but rather that these have to be constructed according to the issues that emerge as policies are conceptualized and implemented to fit local contexts and needs The book pays particular attention to the contexts of policy including the evolving conceptualization of global and local systems of governance knowledge regimes and policy spaces The book is designed for faculty and doctoral students in education who are interested in understanding diverse frameworks for policy analysis and for those in the general public who are interested in the policies we analyze here
