Discipline Problems Tadashi Dozono, 2024-05-07 Angel a Black tenth grader at a New York City public school self identifies as a nerd and likes to learn But she s troubled that her history classes leave out events like the genocide and dispossession of Indigenous people in the Americas presenting a sugar coated image of the United States that is at odds with her everyday experience The history I learned in school is simpler she says The world I live in is a lot more complex Angel like every student interviewed in Discipline Problems has been identified by teachers as a troublemaker a student whose behavior disrupts classroom norms and interferes with instruction But her critiques of the curriculum she s taught speak to her curiosity and insight crucial foundations for understanding history Like many students who have been marginalized by systemic racism in American schools she exposes the shortcomings of her classrooms academic environments by challenging both the content and the methods of her education All too often these challenges are framed as troublemaking and the students are disciplined for acting out instead of being rewarded for their intellectual engagement Tadashi Dozono a professor of education and former high school social studies teacher takes seriously the often overlooked critiques that students of color who get labeled as troublemakers direct toward their high school history curriculum He reinterprets troublemaking usually cast as a behavioral deficit as an intellectual asset and form of reasoning that challenges the disciplining reason of classrooms where whiteness is valued over the histories and knowledge of people of color Dozono shows how what are traditionally framed as discipline problems can be seen through a different lens as responses to educational practices that marginalize non white students Discipline Problems reveals how students of color seek out alternate avenues for understanding their world and imagines a pedagogy that champions the curiosity intellect and knowledge of marginalized learners

Hoffman,2021-03-02 Society and democracy are ever threatened by the fall of fact Rigorous analysis of facts the hard boundary between truth and opinion and fidelity to reputable sources of factual information are all in alarming decline A 2018 report published by the RAND Corporation labeled this problem truth decay and Andrew J Hoffman lays the challenge of fixing it at the door of the academy But as he points out academia is prevented from carrying this out due to its own existential crisis a crisis of relevance Scholarship rarely moves very far beyond the walls of the academy and is certainly not accessing the primarily civic spaces it needs to reach in order to mitigate truth corruption In this brief but compelling book Hoffman draws upon existing literature and personal experience to bring attention to the problem of academic insularity where it comes from and where if left to grow unchecked it will go and argues for the emergence of a more publicly and politically engaged scholar This book is a call to make that path toward public engagement more acceptable and legitimate for those who do it to enlarge the tent to be inclusive of multiple ways that one enacts the role of academic scholar in today's world
