Prohibition Lawman Steve B Davis,2015-08-12 The true story of war hero and prohibition lawman Steve Lawson September 21 1922 is a fateful one for Constable Lawson of the Alberta Provincial Police The force is charged with stopping the illegal importation of liquor into the province After an ill fated run in with police the rum runners confront Lawson at his office and home in Coleman in the Crowsnest Pass There is a brief scuffle shots are fired and the unarmed officer falls to the ground dead After the arrest and subsequent sensational trial the rum runners are hanged the following year The focus in this story is on the victim and his family not on the criminals and the crime Too often victims are forgotten in the media frenzy after crimes are committed Readers will be surprised to learn Steve Lawson is more than a historical footnote but a major player in the history of the West Canadian Books in Print. Author and Title Index ,1975 Hokkaido Dairy Farm Paul Hansen,2024-02-01 Hokkaido Dairy Farm offers a historical and ethnographic examination of the rapid industrialization of the dairy industry in Tokachi Hokkaido It begins with a history of dairy farming and consumption in Hokkaido from a macro perspective mapping the transition from survival to subsistence and then from mixed family farms to monoculture and mega industrial operations It then narrows the focus to examine concrete changes in a Tokachi area dairying community that has undergone rapid sociocultural upheaval over the last three decades with shifts in human relationships alongside changes in human and cow connections through new technologies In the final chapters the scope is further narrowed to a detailed history and ethnography of a single industrializing dairy farm and the morphing cast of individuals attached to it centering on their idiosyncratic searches for economic social and even ontological security in what is popularly considered a peripheral region and industry The culmination of over fifteen years of ethnographic policy and historical research Hokkaido Dairy Farm argues that the dairy industry in Japan has always been entwined with notions of Otherness and security seeking notably in terms of frontiers
