Student Work and Teacher Practices in Science Christine Y. O'Sullivan,Andrew R. Weiss,1999 In 1996 the National Assessment of Educational Progress NAEP assessed the knowledge and skills of students in the areas of earth science life science and physical science It also collected information related to the background of students grades 4 8 and 12 their teachers grades 4 and 8 and the schools they attended grades 4 8 and 12 This report is intended primarily for science teachers hence the results presented relate directly to student performance classroom practices and school climate This report also discusses students attitudes and beliefs about science The report is divided into four parts In the first part chapter 1 an overview of the assessment is provided This includes information about the framework used in the development of the assessment a description of how the assessment was administered to students and an explanation of how to interpret NAEP results In the second part chapters 2 3 and 4 examples of questions and student responses are presented These chapters are divided by grade The third part chapters 5 and 6 contains information collected from students teachers and school administrators about classroom practices student motivation and parental involvement in learning Finally the fourth part contains appendices offering a fuller description of the procedures used for the NAEP 1996 science assessment appendix A scoring guides for questions discussed in chapters 2 3 and 4 appendix B and standard errors for the statistics presented in the report appendix C WRM

Smart Tests Catherine M. Walker,Edgar Schmidt,Kat Mototsune,2004 High stakes accountability and the growing move towards standardized testing are placing teacher knowledge and assessment skills under ever increasing scrutiny Teachers know what is going on in their classrooms and have first hand reliable evidence of what their students can accomplish They can be the major factor in student assessment and help their students better demonstrate what they have learned Smart Tests shows educators how to create well structured evaluation tools that match assessment tasks to the purpose and content of instruction Teachers learn how to relate testing directly to classroom goals and activities and make assessment an integral part of learning and teaching not just the end result They will find the information they need to build assessment tasks that give students in grades K 8 the opportunity to succeed These tasks encourage students to apply new knowledge reflect and defend their thoughts and opinions and connect what they learn the world beyond the classroom

Studies in Science Education in the Asia-Pacific Region May May Hung Cheng, Alister Jones, Cathy Bunting, 2017-09-13 Consistent with international trends there is an active pursuit of more engaging science education in the Asia Pacific region The aim of this book is to bring together some examples of research being undertaken at a range of levels from studies of curriculum and assessment tools to classroom case studies and investigations into models of teacher professional learning and development While neither a comprehensive nor definitive representation of the work that is being carried out in the region the contributions from China Hong Kong Taiwan Korea Japan Singapore Australia and New Zealand give a taste of some of the issues being explored and the hopes that researchers have of positively influencing the types of science education experienced by school students The purpose of this book is therefore to share contextual information related to science education in the Asia Pacific region as well as offering insights for conducting studies in this region and outlining possible questions for further investigation In addition we anticipate that the specific resources and strategies introduced in this book will provide a useful reference for curriculum developers and science educators when they design school science curricula and science both pre service and in service teacher education programmes The first section of the book examines features of science learners and learning and includes studies investigating the processes associated with science conceptual learning scientific inquiry model construction and students attitudes towards science The second section focuses on teachers and teaching It discusses some more innovative teaching approaches adopted in the region including the use of group work inquiry based instruction developing scientific literacy and the use of questions and analogies The third section reports on initiatives related to assessments and curriculum reform including initiatives associated with school based assessment formative assessment strategies and teacher support accompanying curriculum reform
