

Scope of Human Geography

The scope of any subject is the study of all the elements or content covered in that subject. Similarly, human geography includes relation of physical conditions, cultural conditions, population, efficiency, education, science, policy, religion, health, ethics, constitution, etc. You will be able to elaborate mainly on the subject matter of human geography as follows.

Jean Brunhes elaborated Blache's ideas on human geography and possibilism, and diffused the Vidalian tradition to other countries through his major work titled 'Geographie Humaine: essai de classification positive' (1910). This work sought to give the geography of Man a clear disciplinary basis with the identification of following scope or elements of human geography. (i) On the Basis of Evolution of Civilization: (a) Geography of the First Vital Necessity – this category included three primary needs – food, cloth and shelter which are basic needs of all persons irrespective of time and place; (b) Geography of the Earth's Exploitation – this category included the human activities and efforts in which human beings satisfy their needs based on exploitation of natural resources; (c) Geography of Social and Economic Needs – in the social category Brunhes included interdependence, cooperation, division of labour and civic system and other diverse social aspects. In economic needs production, consumption, exchange and distribution were included. (d) Political and Historical Needs – this category included description of political and historical events in relation to geographical facts
