Example Question and Response

Question: How have James' feelings changed so far throughout the story?

Response:

3	James has not had enough money since throughout the story. For example, in the beginning of the story, James had felt happy and was surprised because he had a big birthday. But later in the story, on page 8, I say that James had been crying and was sad because he had not got enough for his birthday. On page 10, I say James had been crying so he had not had enough money.
2	James had got off the big thing of the story because he got into a car and he was happy to go to a party. James was happy, but he didn't have his own car, so he had to go to a party.
1	James had got into the car and was happy.

Steps for responding to questions

1. First, read the question once or twice. Think about what the question is asking. Underline parts of the question that you will be answering OR underline words that you might use from the question in your response.
2. Then, think about what your answer might be. Don't write anything down yet! Just think about your response and say it out loud to a friend or family member to see if it makes sense.
3. After that, look through the book to find the text evidence you'll want to use. Make sure the text evidence matches your answer to the question. You don't need to copy directly from the text (although you can if you'd like) - just use quotation marks. You can re-tell the evidence in your own words.
4. Finally, write your response. Start by answering the question, then include the text evidence that supports your answer. Try to include the page number as well.
