The Twentieth Century World Neil DeMarco, Richard Radway, 1995 Accompanying a pupil's book focusing on the 20th century world this teacher's resource guide is part of a series which provides resources that meet the requirements of the revised Key Stage 3 History curriculum The guide contains additional banks of questions for pupils of different ability levels photocopiable worksheets for developing topics in the pupil's book and providing self-contained resources for homework information on the provenance and background of all sources and detailed teacher's notes Neoclassical Realism and Defence Reform in Post-Cold War Europe T. Dyson, 2016-02-29 Dyson explains the convergence and divergence between British French and German defence reforms in the post Cold War era He engages with cultural and realist theories and develops a neoclassical realist approach to change and stasis in defence policy bringing new material to bear on the factors which have affected defence reforms The Complete Idiot's Guide to Understanding Einstein Gary Moring, 1999-11-01 You're no idiot of course You know that Albert Einstein came up with the famous  $E=mc^2$  equation and that his hair looked like it had survived a nuclear test blast But when it comes to understanding his theories and how they changed the world well you're no Einstein Don't go nuclear yet The Complete Idiots Guide to Understanding Einstein shows how relatively easy and fun it can be to learn and appreciate the world of physics and Einsteins brilliant accomplishments Boys' and Girls' Bookshelf: Historic tales and golden deeds (part 1-2), 1912 Cold War Europe Tobias Nanz, Hedwig Wagner, 2024-10-07 The Cold War is often stereotypically depicted as a period of complete separation between Eastern and Western Europe a time of little communication and exchange between what is often called the Eastern bloc and the capitalist West European integration it is thought was a Western project based on exclusively Western ideas This edited volume aims to debunk this stereotype It provides evidence for the numerous media and individuals that contributed to the circulation and exchange of ideas across the ideological divide of the Iron Curtain The essays in this volume discuss the official and unofficial channels of communication between the Eastern bloc and the West as well as the complex networks of transmission and reception that enabled the exchange of ideas between the two The first part of the volume examines the communication infrastructure of the Cold War and the role of then available communication technologies The second hones in on how different media channels and the radio in particular were used to form and transmit ideas between East and West whereas the third and final part looks at how individual artists and literary authors made their voices heard across the Iron Curtain New Europe Donald McNeill, 2014-05-12 New Europe Imagined Spaces traces the radical transformation of European places and spaces over the last two decades Instead of the familiar schoolbook map of a Europe of nation states the book unpacks the differing imaginations of European identity in recent years Taking as its central problem the fluid nature of cultural and political identity it moves firmly away from and calls into question the perspective of the nation state as the primary source of imagined identity for Europeans The book contributes to key debates such as the emerging Europe of the Regions and the return of the city state examines the rebranding of the nation state and explores the impact of Europeanisation on existing place identity Emphasising mobility and movement the chapters explore borderlands and travel and also include a detailed discussion of the everyday life of Europeans Throughout iconic images of contemporary Europe are invoked Eurodisney the Reichstag Barcelona s Ramblas and the Bilbao Guggenheim and the way in which mundane artefacts and practices such as football walking cars food passports and the Euro help construct identity is considered New Europe Imagined Spaces adopts a multidisciplinary approach to studying Europe providing students with an exploration of contemporary European space and place identity
