PROBLEMS

1. Refer to O'Rourke's demand schedule below. Assume that O'Rourke has, when his income is $100 per week, the demand schedule for good A shown in columns 1 and 2 of the following table and the demand schedule for good B shown in columns 4 and 5. Assume that the prices of A and B are $.60 and $.5, respectively.

Demand for A (per week)			Demand for B (per week)
(1) Price	(2) Quantity demanded	(3) Quantity demanded	(4) Price	(5) Quantity demanded	(6) Quantity demanded
$.90	10	0	$.50	4	7

.70	50	40	3.00	8	11

.60	70	60	2.00	10	13

a. How much A will O'Rourke buy? 30

How much B? 4

When O'Rourke's income is constant @ $100/week, his demand schedule for A is column (2) + good B in column (5)

b. Suppose that as a consequence of a $10 increase in O'Rourke's weekly income, the quantities demanded of A become those shown in column 3 and the quantities demanded of B become those shown in column 6.

(1) How much A will he now buy? 20

How much B? 7

O'Rourke's weekly income increases! His demand schedule for A is now column (3) + for good B, column (6)

(2) Good A is (normal, inferior) inferior

(3) Good B is normal

Section Quiz Combining Supply And Demand:

Energy Research Abstracts, 1980      Improving Effective Coverage in Health Damien de Walque, Eeshani Kandpal, Adam Wagstaff, Jed Friedman, Moritz Piatti-Fünfkirchen, Anja Sautmann, Gil Shapira, Ellen Van de Poel, 2022-05-18 In many low and middle income countries health coverage has improved dramatically in the past two decades but health outcomes have not. As such, effective coverage, a measure of service delivery that meets a minimum standard of quality, remains unacceptably low. Improving Effective Coverage in Health examines one specific policy approach to improving effective coverage: financial incentives in the form of performance based financing (PBF), a package reform that typically includes performance pay to frontline health workers as well as facility autonomy, transparency and community engagement. This Policy Research Report draws on a rich set of rigorous studies and new analysis. When compared with business as usual in low income settings with centralized health systems, PBF can result in substantial gains in effective coverage. However, the relative benefits of PBF, the performance pay component in particular, are less clear when it is compared with two alternative approaches: direct facility financing which provides operating budgets to frontline health services with facility autonomy on allocation but not performance pay; and demand side financial support for health services that is conditional cash transfers and vouchers. Although PBF often results in improvements on the margins, closing the substantial gaps in effective health coverage is not yet within reach for many countries. Nonetheless, important lessons and experiences from the rollout of PBF over the past decade can guide health financing into the future. In particular, to be successful, health financing reform may need to pivot from performance pay while retaining the elements of direct facility financing: autonomy, transparency and community engagement.

Evaluating Development Effectiveness George Keith Pitman, Osvaldo NÃ©stor Feinstein, Gregory K. Ingram, Practitioners give insights on building and satisfying demand for evaluation in developing countries and on the use of evaluation findings to improve decision making on development policies and programs. This volume offers useful insights into methods for evaluating the effectiveness of development and assessing the performance of development aid and aid agencies. BOOK JACKET

Advocacy Organizations and Collective Action Aseem Prakash, Mary Kay Gugerty, 2010-11-25 Advocacy organizations are viewed as actors motivated primarily by principled beliefs. This volume outlines a new agenda for the study of advocacy organizations, proposing a model of NGOs as collective actors that seek to fulfil normative concerns and instrumental incentives, face collective action problems and compete as well as collaborate with other advocacy actors. The analogy of the firm is a useful way of studying advocacy actors because individuals via advocacy NGOs make choices which are analytically similar to those that shareholders make in the context of firms. The authors view advocacy NGOs as special types of firms that make strategic choices in policy markets which, along with creating public goods, support organizational survival, visibility and growth. Advocacy NGOs' strategy can therefore be understood as a response to opportunities to supply distinct advocacy products to well defined constituencies as well as a response to normative or principled concerns      Exploring Microeconomics Robert L. Sexton, 2018-12-10 The excitement of learning economics for the first time The experience of a lifetime of teaching it The Eighth Edition of Exploring Microeconomics captures the excitement of learning microeconomics for the first time through a lively and encouraging narrative that connects microeconomics to the world in a way that is familiar to readers Author Robert L Sexton draws on over 25 years of teaching experience to capture readers attention focusing on core concepts and expertly weaving in examples from current events and popular culture to make even classic economic principles modern and relatable The text sticks to the basics and applies a thoughtful learning design segmenting its presentation into brief visually appealing self contained sections that are easier for readers to digest and retain compared to sprawling text Thoughtfully placed section quizzes interactive summaries and problem sets help readers check their comprehension at regular intervals and develop the critical thinking skills that will allow them to think like economists Exploring Microeconomics will ignite readers passion for the field and reveal its practical application in the world around them      Estimating the Demand, Supply, and National Costs of HIV Testing, 1989

Supply Chain Coordination Mechanisms Martin Albrecht, 2009-09-18 Integrated supply chain planning is well understood by theory and widely applied in practice however only with respect to intra organisational supply chains In inter organisational supply chains an additional yet unresolved problem arises due to confidentiality reasons decentralized parties keep their local data private which prevents an integrated planning Local planning procedures such as upstream planning which are usually applied then result in suboptimal solutions for the supply chain as a whole In this work new mechanisms for inter organizational collaborative supply chain planning are presented These mechanisms are able to identify the systemwide optimum for several classes of supply chain planning problems They can be applied by two or more self interested parties and do not require a trusted third party Extensive computational tests for randomly generated and real word data suggest a favorable performance of these mechanisms
