

every day with the goal of making everyone's day I come into contact with a better one. I have made meaningful connections among my experiences but I still do not complete tasks as great as I would like to. I have many issues with being able to complete tasks on time. I am learning to do things in a timely manner and in the best way possible. I wish to one day use the connections and experiences I have had to better my future.

An ethical issue I care strongly about are women's health issues. In today's society many actions have been taken to decrease quality in women's health that I just do not support. Planned Parenthood has been widely discussed about and being defunded. Some do not believe the quality and affordability of women's health to be important. Women experience more health issues than me and they can prove to be quite difficult. We are often being told what to do with our own bodies. By applying different ethics and multiple perspectives to this issue, we are able to spread awareness of it. By using the issue of ethical principles in women's health, it shows how unethical it is to tell someone how to control their body. By seeing perspectives of women in different situations that the public wishes to defund, one can see how important it is that Planned Parenthood stays in action and continues to get the funding it needs. This will help women everywhere who have to deal with situations such as abortion and pregnancy first hand.
