

MANY NUCLEAR ACCIDENTS-1990s

April 6, 1993 — INES Level 4 - Tomsk, Russia - Explosion

- A pressure buildup led to an explosive mechanical failure in a 34 cubic meter stainless steel reaction vessel buried in a concrete bunker under building 201 of the radiochemical works at the Tomsk-7 Siberian Chemical Enterprise plutonium reprocessing facility. The vessel contained a mixture of concentrated nitric acid, uranium (8757 kg), plutonium (449 g) along with a mixture of radioactive and organic waste from a prior extraction cycle. The explosion dislodged the concrete lid of the bunker and blew a large hole in the roof of the building, releasing approximately 6 GBq of Pu 239 and 30 TBq of various other radionuclides into the environment. The contamination plume extended 28 km NE of building 201, 20 km beyond the facility property. The small village of Georgievka (pop. 200) was at the end of the fallout plume, but no fatalities, illnesses or injuries were reported. The accident exposed 160 on-site workers and almost two thousand cleanup workers to total doses of up to 50 mSv (threshold limit for radiation workers is 100 mSv per 5 y)
- June, 1999 — INES Level 2⁽²⁰⁾ - Ishikawa Prefecture, Japan - Control rod malfunction
- Operators attempting to insert one control rod during an inspection neglected procedure and instead withdrew three causing a 15 minute uncontrolled sustained reaction at the number 1 reactor of Shika Nuclear Power Plant. The Hokuriku Electric Company who owned the reactor did not report this incident and falsified records, covering it up until March, 2007.⁽²¹⁾
- September 30, 1999 — INES Level 4 - Ibaraki Prefecture, Japan - Accidental criticality
- Workers put uranyl nitrate solution containing about 16.6 kg of uranium, which exceeded the critical mass, into a precipitation tank at a uranium reprocessing facility in Tokai-mura northeast of Tokyo, Japan. The tank was not designed to dissolve this type of solution and was not configured to prevent eventual criticality. Three workers were exposed to (neutron) radiation doses in excess of allowable limits. Two of these workers died. 116 other workers received lesser doses of 1 mSv or greater though not in excess of the allowable limit.⁽²²⁾

Site Fights Daniel P. Aldrich,2011-03-15 One of the most vexing problems for governments is building controversial facilities that serve the needs of all citizens but have adverse consequences for host communities Policymakers must decide not only where to locate often unwanted projects but also what methods to use when interacting with opposition groups In Site Fights Daniel P Aldrich gathers quantitative evidence from close to five hundred municipalities across Japan to show that planners deliberately seek out acquiescent and unorganized communities for such facilities in order to minimize conflict When protests arise over nuclear power plants dams and airports agencies regularly rely on the coercive powers of the modern state such as land expropriation and police repression Only under pressure from civil society do policymakers move toward financial incentives and public relations campaigns Through fieldwork and interviews with bureaucrats and activists Aldrich illustrates these dynamics with case studies from Japan France and the United States The incidents highlighted in Site Fights stress the importance of developing engaged civil society even in the absence of crisis thereby making communities both less attractive to planners of controversial projects and more effective at resisting future threats
